LEGAL BEER IS ASKED BY LABOR,
GREEN ASSERTSFederation to Fight Wage Reductions to Last Ditch—and Beyond"

Vancouver, B. C. (AP)—William Green, president of the International Federation of Labor, asserts that organized workmen want modification of the Volstead act and will fight wage reductions "to the last ditch—and beyond."

Delegates assembled here for the fifty-first annual convention of the federation heard his views yesterday on the problems of prohibition, unemployment and distribution of wealth. The convention proper opens Monday.

Green indicated in an interview the federation would demand modification of the Volstead act by congress to permit the manufacture and sale of 2.75 beer. The labor head believes legalization of beer would create an immediate demand for labor in rehabilitating breweries, transportation and allied lines, which would aid in combating unemployment.

He denounced wage reductions, predicted "social unrest" if they continue, demanded a "more equitable distribution of wealth" and suggested shorter working hours to "take up the slack" in the supply of labor in addresses before departmental pre-convention sessions.

A controversial issue will be brought before the convention by the building trades department, which voted to initiate an amendment to the federation constitution which would force three dissenting building crafts into their department or out of the federation.

The building tradesmen disregarded warnings by Daniel J. Tobin, Indianapolis, Ind., president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stevedores and Helpers, that the resolution proposing the constitutional amendment was futile and dangerous.

Divide Into Groups
The three crafts, bricklayers, carpenters and electrical workers, separated themselves from other building trades after jurisdictional and other disputes.

President Green, addressing a meeting of the workers, pointed to the growth of the number of millionaires in the United States as evidence of the "iniquitous distribution of wealth created by industry."

"The problem," he said, "is how to bring about a sound and just distribution of the nation's wealth. Unless this is done through the payment of wages, then it will undoubtedly come through taxation."

"It is my hope for the country's welfare as well as our own that the cumulative volume of wealth created by industry will be adequately distributed in the form of wages. If this is not done, then I favor the United States government taking excess fortunes through taxation and in this manner redistributing wealth."

Inheritance taxes should be increased. Income taxes must be increased in the higher brackets. We must serve notice that there is to be no perpetual accumulation of wealth in a few private hands."

In another address, before the building trades department, President Green said organized labor would oppose wage reductions to the end.

FORMER BANK CASHIER
GUILTY ON 5 COUNTS

Mauston (AP)—LeRoy Marquette, former Lyndon State bank cashier, charged with irregularities in his accounts, was found guilty on five of eight counts by a jury in circuit court here late yesterday. Defense attorneys were given until this afternoon to file motions for a new trial. Marquette testified certain of his acts were committed to "cover up" for Lyall Wright, former Sheriff of Juneau-co.

BRITAIN LAMENTS
DEATH OF LIPTONFamous Yachtsman Did Much to Cement Cordial Relations With U. S.

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP)—A wave of regret swept over Ulster today with news of the death of Sir Thomas Lipton, its friend and benefactor.

Viscount Craigavon, premier of Ulster, said he was profoundly grieved at the loss of a personal friend and characterized him as an outstanding business man who would be "remembered chiefly for the high qualities of sportsmanship which he ever displayed."

"The United States will mourn his loss as deeply as any of us here," he said. "Throughout his yachting career he did much to cement the cordial relations between that great republic and the British people. I hope his passing will touch hearts on both sides of the Atlantic and knit still further the golden bands of friendship."

Cardinal Mercurio referred to him as "a great sportsman and a fine, lovable type of Irishman." Clones, his ancestral town on the Ulster border, to which he had promised a park when he brought home the America cup, especially was stricken with grief.

His loss was felt also in the little town of Bangor, headquarters of the Royal Ulster Yacht club, where he was known personally by almost every adult and was the idol of every schoolboy. He was recalled as a genial, kindly man who had made their yacht club famous around the world.

In accordance with his wishes Sir Thomas will be buried beside the members of his family in Glasgow. The body will be taken there by train Tuesday night and the funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon with services in Saint Columba's church in London simultaneously.

WONDER ABOUT FORTUNE
London (AP)—The death of Sir Thomas Lipton, who was a "world's finest loser" as a yachtsman, was mourned today by Britons from the exclusive confines of the Royal yacht squadron to the slums of his native Glasgow.

As plans for his funeral went forward, there was much speculation as to the size of his estate and who would inherit it. He never married and was the last of his family.

The old rumor that he had set aside a large sum years ago to be used in carrying on the assaults against the America cup after his death was rejuvenated but it was too early for definite information.

BROTHERS BEATEN AND ROBBED BY 4 BANDITS

Fond du Lac (AP)—Henry and John Wagner, brothers, were slugged and robbed of $50 by four men who ransacked the Wagner farm home near here yesterday yesterday. The victims were bound by the robbers. A sister, who was unharmed, released them after the quartet had gone. Apparently angered by the small amount of the loot, the robbers beat the brothers senseless. They missed a hidden wallet containing money and valuable papers, the brothers said.

OVER $20,000 PAID
IN ADVANCE TAXES

Milwaukee (AP)—Milwaukeeans already have paid in more than $20,000 advance taxes for 1932, Louis M. Kotecki, city comptroller said today. The big reason for the advance payments, he said, is the depression and the insecurity of many investments.

EDISON RECOVERS FROM ATTACK OF INDIGESTION

West Orange, N. J. (AP)—Thomas A. Edison suffered a severe attack of indigestion last night which for a time worried his physicians. It was said at the Edison home today. This morning he had fully recovered from the attack, but it was reported there was no change in his general condition.

JAP AIRPLANES
DROP BOMBS ON CHINESE FORCEContinue to Keep Grip in Manchuria — Bandits
Driven from Region

Changchun, Manchuria (AP)—Reuter News agency reported today that Japanese airplanes had bombed and destroyed Chinese barracks at Fushan-Chengtse, on the Mukden-Hailu railway, yesterday after they had been fired on by Chinese troops estimated to number 6,000. The casualties were estimated at 200. Sixty bombs were dropped.

Shanghai (AP)—Japanese fighting planes reportedly bombed concentrations of either Chinese troops or bandits in the neighborhood of Mukden, Manchuria, today.

Advices from the theater of the Sino-Japanese controversy also said Japanese troops had occupied Newchwang, strategic point on a branch line of the Japanese operated South Manchurian railway.

Both Japanese and Chinese press dispatches agreed that the Japanese military was not relaxing its grip on the occupied zones of Manchuria.

Japanese reports asserted the troop movements were protective expeditions allegedly necessitated by widespread lawlessness in southern Manchuria, but the Chinese countered with the statement that the Japanese were responsible for such conditions because their occupation of the areas in question had destroyed the machinery for the maintenance of order.

Drive Out Bandits
All accounts agreed that southern Manchuria was filled with bandits and groups of marauding former soldiers whose units had been dispersed when the Japanese had marched in.

Rengo News agency (Japanese) said the Chinese peace preservation committee established at Mukden after the Japanese occupation of that city was rapidly assuming the functions of a full-fledged provincial government.

Meanwhile Chang Hsueh-Liang, governor of Manchuria, looked on impatiently from Peiping, where he is receiving treatment in a hospital. His power no longer extends beyond Chinchow, where his lieutenant, General Chang Tso-Hsiang, established headquarters for what remains of the old northeastern defense force.

Well informed observers believe that Chang Hsueh-Liang's fears of losing the domain he inherited from his war-torn father, Chang Tso-Lin, was one of the motives of the spectacular journey from Peiping to Nanking of Dr. V. K. Wellington-Koo.

Interviews Leaders
The latter, one-time premier of the old Peking regime, flew from the northern city to the Chinese capital Thursday and interviewed Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese president. Yesterday he flew to Shanghai to see T. V. Soong, Chinese finance minister, returning to Nanking by plane and talking to Chiang Kai-Shek again, after which he took off for Peiping.

Wellington-Koo is considered Chang Hsueh-Liang's nominee to fill the office of Chinese minister of foreign affairs, vacated recently by the resignation of Dr. C. T. Wang. Wang resigned because of dissatisfaction over his handling of China's side of the Sino-Japanese dispute.

It was persistently reported that Wellington-Koo in behalf of Chang Hsueh-Liang, had tried to persuade government leaders at Nanking to enter into direct negotiations with Japan seeking some form of settlement of the Manchurian trouble and permitting Chang to return to Mukden, his capital.

In appealing to the league of nations, China sought intervention, but Japan took the position that the trouble should be settled by direct negotiations between the two countries.

ADVERSE WINDS KEEP PAIR AGROUND IN JAPAN

Samushiro, Japan (AP)—Delayed first by motor trouble and then prevented from taking off by adverse winds, Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, American aviators, were detained here today in their effort to get away for a trans-Pacific flight, but made plans to take off tomorrow.

The fliers were in the plane's cockpit early today. The motor sputtered. They climbed out and worked on it several hours before it was in running order. By that time adverse winds were blowing across the mile long runway and they decided it would be impossible to get the heavily loaded plane into the air.

Don Jaime, Last Pretender
To Throne Of Spain, DiesHeart Attack During Motor Trip Fatal to Chieftain of Carlists

Paris (AP)—Don Jaime of Bourbon, last of the Charlist pretenders to the throne of Spain, died in exile last night after a heart attack. He was 61 and unmarried.

He was stricken while motoring to Chantilly with two of his associates and was brought back to his home in Paris. A priest and a physician were summoned and he passed away several hours later.

His death came only a week after it was announced that he and former King Alfonso, his distant cousin, had ended their life-long rivalry and henceforth would labor together for "the salvation of Spain." Alfonso's associates emphasized that the reconciliation was a family affair and did not involve the rights to the throne.

Don Jaime was the son of Don Carlos, grandson of the first Carlist pretender and of Princess Marguerite of Parma. His claims to the throne dated back to Ferdinand VII who was succeeded by his daughter Isabella. When she abdicated in favor of her son Alfonso XII, the original Don Carlos asserted his pretensions as a brother of Ferdinand.

Unlike his ancestors, Don Jaime made no attempts to reclaim the throne by force of arms and never

CHARGES PRESIDENT
BLOCKED CONFERENCESenator Pittman Says Silver Conclave Necessary to U. S. Commerce

Washington (AP)—President Hoover was charged by Senator Pittman today with blocking an international silver conference which the Nevada Democrat contends is one solution for the world depression.

Pittman, chairman of a senate committee investigating the silver situation, said an international conference was "absolutely necessary" and added delay was "exceedingly dangerous to the commerce of the United States."

He predicted that Great Britain's temporary abandonment of the gold standard would exclude this country from foreign markets and unless something were done to remedy the situation the United States would be forced to "live within itself."

The result, he said, would be continued unemployment and more acute economic distress.

Pittman said the calling of an international conference by the president, as suggested by the senate would involve "no suggestion of an abandonment of the gold standard by the United States."

NEW CHINESE ENVOY
CONFERS WITH CHIEF

Nanking, China (AP)—W. W. Yen, newly appointed Chinese minister to the United States, arrived here today for a conference with President Chiang Kai-Shek.

Yen said the date of his departure for America would not be determined until he met the president. Incidentally Yen is among those mentioned for the office of Chinese foreign minister to succeed C. T. Wang, who resigned because of popular dissatisfaction over his handling of the Sino-Japanese dispute.

NO VERDICT BROUGHT
BY ARSON CASE JURY

Waukesha (AP)—A municipal court jury which had deliberated nearly five hours in the case of Herman Koenig, 70, Menomonee Falls farmer, charged with arson, was dismissed last night when the jurors reported they were unable to reach a verdict. Koenig was charged with setting fire to the barn of Nick Lauer, farmer living near Lannon.

Commission Gets Plea For Four System Rail Merger

Washington (AP)—Principal eastern railroads today asked the Interstate Commerce commission to permit them to consolidate into four systems.

The plan—presented by the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore and Ohio, the New York Central and the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate systems—materially alters the consolidation plan proposed by the Interstate Commerce commission in December, 1929.

The commission plan, drawn after lengthy hearings provided five systems in the east.

The four system plan dismembers the northern end of the Washash-Seaboard system suggested by the commission and extends the Pennsylvania railroad as far south as Washington, Durham and Elkhart, N. C., and Bristol, Tenn. Va.

Aside from dismemberment of the fifth eastern system, the plan raises officially set foot in Spain so far as was known. From the safety of Paris he directed a number of manifestos at the Spanish people impugning the rights of the reigning house and urging his own qualifications for the crown.

Alfonso was informed of his death and was expected to attend the first mass in his honor. It is probable that he will be buried at Frohsdorf, Austria, near Vienna, home of the Carlist pretenders.

Short Sales
Curb Urged
At Capital

Washington (AP)—A resolution urging the New York Stock exchange to take steps to limit short selling of stocks and bonds was adopted today by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The resolution said the limitation might require that "such sales be prohibited except by those who have actual possession of such securities or those who deposit 40 per cent of the sale value in cash and give evidence of possession of the remainder."

Legitimate marketing of securities would not be interfered with.

A call for local chamber of commerce to rally behind drives for funds for emergency relief was sounded today by the national chamber by the national chamber.

The board of directors of the chamber of Commerce of the United States in the resolution adopted urged local chambers "to take the initiative in lending the full weight of their influence in seeing to it that in each community, where emergency relief is needed, the funds which are raised are adequate."

The resolution said that providing work and relief of primary importance and that next came the provision of adequate relief funds.

CONFIDENCE GREATEST NEED, INSULT STATES

Chicago (AP)—Samuel Insull, public utilities magnate, yesterday said America's greatest need now is confidence. It was one of the few times Mr. Insull, who recently returned from England, permitted himself to be quoted.

He commented briefly on the reaction of the English people to recent economic ills.

They were strikingly calm and we could do well to maintain the same attitude," he said. "Our people should not take the situation here so pessimistically. It is not always going to be this way. Laugh a bit. It would be helpful."

NEW JOBLESS
RIOTS CURBED
IN SCOTLANDMany Injured and About 100 Arrested in Glasgow
Police Fight Mobs

Glasgow, Scotland (AP)—The most vindictive rioting and looting in years, extending intermittently over two nights and a day, came to a climax early today when police swept the streets clean and restored order.

Resuming about 8:30 last night, the battle between jobless men demonstrating against dole reductions and the forces of the law raged for more than six hours. An undetermined number of the rioters and several police were injured and upwards of 100 arrests were made.

The melee began when police charged a body of about 100 men who were holding a manifestation outside the jail in which John McGovern, Labor M. P., and his lieutenants were being held for Thursday night's outbreak. Almost simultaneously trouble started in the Gallowgate, Glasgow Cross and other sections of the city.

Far outnumbered, the police tried on foot and horseback to disperse the mobs. They charged time and again with loaded batons and the rioters replied with hammers, hatchets and makeshift weapons of every description. A variety of missiles thrown from neighboring houses added to the uproar.

Constant Outbreaks
As fast as the demonstrators were driven off the main streets they darted into alleys and formed for renewed attacks. Throughout the night and early hours they broke into countless shops and carried away great stocks of food and other merchandise. The damage was estimated at thousands of pounds and the loss in foodstuffs was considered incalculable.

The police finally got the upper hand and mounted patrol over that were littered with loot and the debris of battle. Scores of marauders were dragged into police stations with blood streaming from their wounds. A few went to hospitals and hundreds nursed battered heads and broken limbs within the privacy of their homes.

The outbreaks were not organized like those of the previous night, and seemed to lack leadership. They occurred in all parts of the city without warning and were stamped out only to rise again when the police relaxed their vigilance. Their object seemingly was the theft and destruction of property as much as a protest against the government's economy measures.

$7,500,000 IN GOLD SHIPPED FROM JAPAN

Yokohama, Japan (AP)—Consigned to the United States for the Yokohama Specie bank, 15,000,000 yen (about $7,500,000) was aboard the steamship Kinki Maru today. It was the first specie shipment made here since Japan's suspension of the gold standard.

Financial circles said it was the first of a series of shipments that will total 70,000,000 yen (about $35,000,000), to be made to replenish the gold holdings of the Yokohama Specie bank, which has an increasing demand for dollars since Great Britain temporarily went off the gold basis.

TERRORIZES FAMILY,
THEN COMMITS SUICIDE

Escanaba, Mich. (AP)—After terrorizing his wife and daughter during a quarrel over paternity, George Deputis, 37, farmer living near Perronville, apparently set fire to his house and barn and then committed suicide yesterday. His body was found in the ruins of the house. A shotgun found nearby indicated he shot himself.

Mrs. Deputis told authorities she and her daughter, Ann, witnessed the destruction of the home from an adjoining woods where they took refuge. She said Deputis, fired several shot at them with a rifle when they attempted to stop him from setting fire to the barn.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS
GERM THOUGHT ISOLATED

San Francisco (AP)—Dr. Frederick Ebersson, director of clinical laboratories and research at Mt. Zion hospital, has isolated a germ which he believes may be one of the hitherto invisible army of polio-viruses, otherwise known as infantile paralysis.

Dr. Ebersson was not sure of his discovery. He pointed out yesterday, however, that the proof will lie in tests and said monkeys already had been inoculated for observation.

KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Fond du Lac (AP)—Clarence Corbelle, 22, Fond du Lac, was killed instantly last night when an automobile he was driving collided with another machine, overturned and pinned him beneath it. Seven others suffered minor injuries.

Chicago Chief

One of the sternest disciplinarians of the Chicago police, Captain James P. Allman, above, is the new police commissioner of that city. He was appointed by Mayor Cermak and unanimously approved by the city council, succeeding Acting Commissioner John H. Alcock, who returned to his old post of deputy commissioner.

VOTERS OF FIRST
DISTRICT AT POLLSBlanchard and Amie Believed to Have Best Chances in G. O. P.

Racine (AP)—A choice of congressional nominees for the unexpired term of the late Henry Allen Cooper was being made today by voters of the First Wisconsin district in a special primary which may have marked effect on the balance of power in the house of representatives.

State Senator George Blanchard, Conservative Republican, and Thomas Amie, Progressive Republican, were considered by politicians the leading candidates, with Thorwald M. Beck, conservative, also conceded a chance for the Republican nomination. Two Democrats, one Socialist and one Communist also are in the field.

There are six vacancies in the house which now has a membership of 213 Republicans, 215 Democrats and one Farmer-Labor congressman. The Republican apparently lost one vote on the basis of a congressional recount yesterday in Illinois which gave victory to a Democratic candidate. The lower house of congress will be asked to decide the contest at its first session this winter.

Blanchard is nominated and elected he will support the administration, political observers said, while Amie's support would be doubtful. Beck also is an administration supporter.

During the campaign, Amie and his supporters, including Gov. Philip La Follette, Senators Robert M. La Follette and John J. Blaine, severely criticized the Hoover administration's attitude toward the tariff, unemployment and prohibition. The Progressive candidate advocated modification of the prohibition laws as did all other candidates with the exception of Blanchard.

The election will be held Oct. 13.

H. G. WELLS TO VISIT
WISCONSIN UNIVERSITY

Madison (AP)—President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin, announced today that H. G. Wells, noted British novelist, plans to visit here for about three days during November.

"Mr. Wells is not coming to the United States for a lecture tour, but to study the social and economic situation," President Frank said. "He plans to spend less than a month in the United States. It is gratifying that Mr. Wells expressed a specific interest in what we are doing at the University of Wisconsin and directed that a weekend in Madison be placed on his schedule."

The dates of Mr. Wells' visit are tentatively fixed for Nov. 6, 7, and 8. He will be the house guest of President and Mrs. Frank while in Madison.

ARMS RACE IS CRISIS CAUSE,
PONTIFF SAYSPleads for Crusade to Help Unemployed Throughout World

Vatican City (AP)—Pope Pius XI, in an apostolic letter to the priests of the world today cited the "frenzied race of armaments" as the primary cause of the world's distress, and advocated a "crusade of charity and success" for the world's unemployed.

The financial crisis, he writes, is the "new plague which menaces humanity."

Priests of the church everywhere must give all they can to relieve those in need, the pontiff writes, and if they need more they must get it from their superiors.

The stricken people of the world, he says, ask only the privilege of earning their bread, but many of them are unable to do so "in these days of hatred and of implacable war."

He attributes the world's misery to "violence of the peoples" and to "enormous expenditures from the public wealth." The race for superiority in armaments he characterizes as one of the most important factors in this "extraordinary crisis."

Three Agencies

There are three contributing agencies to relief, he asserts—"prayer, preaching and the press"—all of which may spread the gospel of a crusade "for the innocent."

"And now," the latter says, "winter comes with its sufferings and privations to the poor and the tender infants. Every day the plague of unemployment, already grave, will become worse and worse."

The pontiff views the situation with "trepidation" and appeals to "all those with faith and Christian love" to join the crusade's proposals.

He given at this time, he writes, will help the poor as well as the body and will "extinguish the flames of destruction and evil thought which often drive the poor to sin and hate."

OFFICIALS CLEARED OF BRIBE TAKING CHARGES

Chicago (AP)—When the attorney general's office in Washington yesterday cleared U. S. Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and his assistants of charges made in connection with the Druggan-Lake income tax case, Johnson took the news calmly. He referred to a statement he made a week ago in which he said:

"No one in my office ever has taken a bribe. What the purpose of the story conveys except to impair my usefulness as a public official, I can not understand."

What Will YOU Do to Help . . . . ?

Face the fact that you yourself, either through carelessness or indifference are partially responsible for America's annual Fire bill: 10,000 lives, 10,000 injuries, $500,000,000 property damage! Face the further fact that you have paid your share of that bill in taxes and insurance premiums. Finally, consider the possibility that next year your life, or the life of a dear one, may be numbered among the 10,000; that your property may be listed in next year's toll. What are you going to do about it?

Certainly, there are numberless things you can do. Much progress has been made in the knowledge of Fire, its causes and its preventions. Science has contributed no end of equipment for preventing and fighting fire. Modern building materials and methods of construction, modern heating systems, fire extinguishers, warehouses, safety deposit vaults and professional garment cleaners all offer means for doing their bit to conquer man's most terrifying enemy. But remember — WHAT CANNOT BE PROTECTED FROM FIRE CAN BE REBUILT BY INSURANCE! Do everything in your power to lessen the tragic waste of Fire — and be protected by ENOUGH fire insurance. The firms listed below are best equipped to aid you.

Nine Rules of FIRE-PREVENTION

1. Make sure your match is out before throwing it away.
2. Extinguish the last spark of your cigar or cigarette.
3. Take care lest dry waste or oily rags accumulate in some out-of-the-way corner of your house.
4. Build your rubbish bonfire where there is no danger of spreading — and watch it carefully.
5. Have your wiring inspected regularly and repaired when necessary.
6. Avoid kerosene, benzine or naphtha for cleaning purposes.
7. Watch your heating system and chimney. They should be kept clean and in perfect working condition.
8. Keep matches beyond the reach of your children and your children beyond the reach of any kind of fire.
9. Do not leave your forest camp fire before it is totally extinguished.

President Of Lions International Not Afraid Of Communism

HYER STRESSES PREACHING OF LOVE FOR FLAG

Be Optimistic and Hold Out Helping Hand, He Tells Appleton Club

There is no chance for Communism to gain a foothold in the United States as long as the men who live here own their own homes, can send their children to fine schools, and attend churches each week, Julien C. Hyer, Fort Worth, Texas, president of the Lions International, declared in an address at a dinner meeting of the Appleton Lions club at Conway hotel last night.

Mr. Hyer said that during the depression there is a great opportunity for Lions clubs throughout the country to show what Lionism stands for. He urged the members here to hold out a helping hand to their needy brothers. He urged them to smile and be optimistic, thus spreading a general feeling of well being over the country.

Organizations which help to guard against the threat of Communism, such as the American Legion and the Boy Scouts, should be encouraged by Lions clubs, said Mr. Hyer. He urged the continual preaching of the doctrine of love for the flag.

"The L in Lions stands for loyalty," Mr. Hyer said. "There is no greater word than this in the English language. The 'L' stands for loyalty, an attribute which is essential in business today. Many of our biggest businesses could not exist if the purchasers of the nation did not trust the men who operate them. Especially, in this time of depression, is there a need for integrity."

"O" For Optimism

"The 'O' stands for optimism, which certainly is needed now by the people of this country. We in Lionism believe that our country will come through and that the time is not far distant when we will be out of this situation. The 'O' also stands for others. If we always think of these two words, optimism and others, we will lose all selfishness and bring to ourselves a fineness and greatness which our organization stands for."

"Nationalism is indicated by the 'N' in the name of our organization. Today we are asking when the nations of the world will lay down their arms. At the same time Great Britain, reeling under an almost overwhelming burden from the last war, staggered and fell. But a great nationalism has enabled her to survive the war, put her affairs in order and start about repairing the damage that was done. The United States has managed to keep its feet and move forward because our nationalism."

"The 'S' stands for success and service. Success cannot always be measured in dollars or cents or the type of home in which a man lives. Many a man who is humble, honest and eating humble food, is far more of a success in life than a man who is considered rich. Service to others is the thing that can bring success."

Mr. Hyer, who is to speak at Fond du Lac tonight, praised the Appleton Lions club as one of the most outstanding clubs in the United States.

Praises Appleton Club

He pointed out that Appleton is known for the splendid program it is carrying out, for the fine type of men it sends to the conventions, for the splendid work being done among boys, and for the fine type of men enrolled in the club. He also praised all Wisconsin Lions club and its standard of leadership. He declared that Lionism has made greater strides in 1931 so far than in the same period in 1930. He said there are more members and more clubs enrolled in the work and that the financial condition of the organization is better.

Before Mr. Hyer's talk, Frank V. Birch, Milwaukee, an international director; Lawson Lurvey, Fond du Lac, district governor; and George H. Dobbin, Fremont, a past district governor, were introduced. Each spoke briefly. A wind instrument quartet from Appleton high school, under direction of E. C. Moore, played several selections and the Nixon quartet sang several numbers.

There were about 100 Lions and their wives at the meeting. It was Mr. Hyer's first visit to Wisconsin.

ATTEND MEETING OF LUTHERAN MINISTERS

The Rev. F. M. Brandt of St. Paul church and the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer of Mount Olive attended the meeting of Lutheran ministers of the Wisconsin synod of Outagamie-co at Freedom Friday. The Rev. E. North and south streets will be canvassed first, and east and west streets later.

2 SUSPECTS IN COLLINGS CASE ARE RELEASED

Widow Declares Two Held in Florida Are Not Yacht Attackers

Daytona Beach, Fla.—(AP)—Dr. Leslie D. Ritchie and his son were released from custody here early today when Mrs. Benjamin P. Collings failed to identify them as the "pirates" who recently boarded the Collings yacht on Long Island sound, killed her husband and abducted her.

With an attorney, William L. Kelley, the Stamford, Conn., yachtman's widow arrived here at midnight from New York to view the Ritchies who were arrested two days before. They went to the jail after stopping a short time at a hotel.

Only officers and attorneys were present when Mrs. Collings confronted the two prisoners. They stood in a group of twelve men of similar appearance.

"She signed them out readily, but she said, it was because she had previously seen pictures of them," As Mrs. Collings shook her head negatively, Dr. Ritchie spoke up.

"I am not the man," he said.

"Thank you," Mrs. Collings asserted.

"Thank you," said Ritchie.

Then William Ritchie, 23-year-old son of the former veterinarian, rushed up to Mrs. Collings and shook her hand emotionally.

"A few minutes after Mrs. Collings failed to identify the Ritchies, the pair were released from custody. They left the jail with their wives and the 3-year-old daughter of the younger man for their home, located near a woodyard they operate on the outskirts of the city.

Wives Also Barred

The wives of the Ritchies, who like newspapermen, were barred from the meeting with Mrs. Collings, had anxiously awaited them outside the locked door of the room where the hearing was held. Attorneys for the Ritchies announced Mrs. Collings failure to identify them and told what went on at the brief meeting.

The Collings party included besides the widow and Kelley her attorney, Fred J. Munroe, assistant attorney of Suffolk-co and her sister-in-law Helen Collings. After the hearing they said they would leave at 5 a. m. to return to New York. Mrs. Collings would not see newspapermen on her arrival here. Her husband was slain on his yacht, the Penguin, Sept. 9 and his body tossed overboard. The widow said his two assassins, "one in a motor launch, took her off with them and later released her. The Collings' small daughter was aboard the yacht, a small cabin cruiser."

SWIMMING CLASSES TO START NEXT WEDNESDAY

The Woman's club swimming classes will begin next Wednesday morning at the Y. M. C. A. under direction of Mrs. J. R. Miller, expert swimming instructor. Enrollments are being taken this week. More than 1,500 women and children were instructed last winter.

The classes were so successful last year that the club is planning to sponsor another health class. If the interest is great enough among women in the community, Mrs. Miller will conduct a class in calisthenics in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The class will be held in the evening, will include setting up exercises, folk dancing and general gymnastics.

ELECT 12 LEADERS TO OUTLINE HIKE ROUTES

A hike of two or three, and even four miles up to the Fox river is a mere jaunt to members of the Appleton High School Girls' Athletic association. In fact the girls enjoy hiking so much this kind of weather that they have elected 12 hike leaders whose duty it is to find the places and organize the routes. These leaders are Josephine Froude, Wilhelmine Harms, Helen Stark, Phyllis Blazer, Margaret Theiss, Mammie Chalk, Bernice Leinwand, Veronica Brehm, Ramona Hooyman, Eldine Strutz, Helen Voigt and Eunice Palm. The first trip of season was a walk to Green Patch one afternoon after school.

GRANT DIVORCE TO APPLETON RESIDENT

FIND CABBAGE STANDS POOR IN THIS REGION

Cabbage stands in fields about Appleton were found to be so poor yesterday that officials of the Appleton Cabbage Growers association, following a survey, were unable to make a definite comparison with last year's crops. The survey was made by Phil Bixby, president Matt Schaefer, secretary of the association, and Gus Sell, county agent. The survey was made for the purpose of determining how a new strain of cabbage, brought to the county from New York last year, is growing. Only two farmers were found to have good stands of cabbage. These were the farms of William Schroeder, town of Ellington, and Gilbert Wehling, town of Center.

But the officials decided not to attempt to make a comparison on the basis of results on these farms because of the unusual growing conditions which existed this year.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press New York — Charles E. Mitchell, who remains the head of the merged National City bank and bank of America, made the former the first American billion dollar bank in 1927. The merged institution, from the three special mission festival services at St. Paul church. There are life preservers on the walls. Here the big, ruddy skipper of a score of golden argosies finds echoes of his inner self. He is contentuous of tanks and swims in a rough, open sea. The nautical gear feeds the mood.

Mr. Mitchell steps downstairs to a Louis Quinze mansion. Here is the stately and beautiful ballroom of old Versailles—another mood. The country estate at Tuxedo, N. J., is the retreat of the grand signeur of the English squire—blooded horses and prize-winning chrysanthemums. On the dunes at Southampton, it is a long, rambling shingled summer home, for Fox terriers and youngsters. The back office at 55 Wall Street is colonial—Hippelwhite, Bar on Stiegitz, Currier and Ives, with a colonial fireplace and a genial open fire. There, even the hand-outs for the respectful reporters are Macaulayesque.

Mr. Mitchell's career embraces the short and simple annals of the rich: Colonial Massachusetts ancestry, Amherst, Western Electric, a New York bank connection, and a long up-bound, escalator.

The day's setting-up exercise for sluggish imaginations: a plump, humorous German kappelmester who drinks vast quantities of milk and likes American near beer. That's Erich Kleiber, arriving in New York on the liner Hamburg to be guest conductor for the Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra. Herr Kleiber is muskikdirektor of the Berlin State opera and one of the most distinguished conductors of Europe. An orphan at five, he was reared by maiden aunts, early disclosing his musical genius.

He was bald at 25 and now at 41, short, brisk and likeable, he looks just as he did fifteen years ago.

In Buenos Aires he met Ruth Goodrich, an American girl attached to the staff of the embassy, and married her. He has been leading orchestras since 1922. He was then third assistant director of the orchestra of the Grand Duke of Hesse in Darmstadt. The conductor of "Das Rosenkavalier" fell ill. Herr Kleiber stepped in. He was a blazing success and has never since. He is a modernist and likes jazz.

The somewhat drab picture of economic recovery may show some new chromatic highlights with General Smedley D. Butler in it. Two days after his retirement from the marines, General Butler mobilizes fourteen millionaires, "representing wealth of $5,000,000,000," who, he said, are ready to contribute half their wealth to staving off disaster.

General Butler has been variously known as "Old Gimlet Eye," "The Fighting Quaker," "The Fighting Butler" and "The Hell Drive Marine." Holding two congressional medals for bravery, he fights his way out of trouble, but usually talks himself in again. The unstudied and charmingly indiscreet historicities of his two years as director of public safety in Philadelphia provided almost as much good newspaper copy as the world war. He ended this brief career from local journalism with a letter of resignation to the mayor. Clearing his desk, he took from a drawer a handsome, blue enameled Colt .45, bearing the inscription, "To General Smedley D. Butler, From the Mayor." "Give the mayor this letter and this gun," he said to a subordinate. "He can print the letter if he wants to. I don't care what he does with the gun."

Quaker bred, General Butler died about his age to get into the Spanish American war. He fought in the Philippines, China, Nicaragua, Mexico and Haiti, was wounded at Tientsin, and in the army or out, managed to keep things stirred up wherever he went.

OUTLINE PLANS FOR ECONOMICS CLUBS PROGRAM

Expect More Than 500 Women Will Take Part in Event in County

Plans for the home economics club program for rural women of Outagamie-co were made yesterday by Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent, and Miss Wealthy Hale, home management expert with the state department of agriculture. More than 500 women are expected to enroll in the program which will get under way the latter part of October.

It was decided that the instructions to be given the various clubs in the county this year would be on home management, with Miss Hale coming to the county once each month to hold meetings at four central points and give the instructions. Last year the lessons were conducted by Miss Thompson in eight centers. However, with a state expert coming in, it will be necessary to cut the number of centers to four. This also will necessitate the curtailment of the number of local leaders appointed by each club. Last year there was one local leader for each five members, while this year each club will have only two local leaders. These local leaders attend the monthly lessons at the centers and then return to their clubs and repeat the lessons.

Lessons will be given under the home management course this year will include making hook rugs, making braided rugs, refinishing furniture, fancy wall finishes and various finishes for floors.

Late in October Miss Thompson plans to hold a series of general meetings throughout the county to which all women interested in home economics work will be invited. At this time Miss Thompson will give a lesson in foods and the women will be asked to make arrangements for organization of local clubs and selection of county centers. Miss Thompson now is preparing a list of the places where the meetings will be held this month.

The regular home economics program will get under way in November, when Miss Hale will come to the county to conduct the first lessons.

BUETOW JOB HEARING SET FOR THIS MONTH

Madison — (P) — The argument which the state highway commission and the bureau of personnel will present in court here Oct. 17 in opposing W. C. Buetow's suit for reinstatement as state highway engineer will be based on the 35 word letter Buetow wrote to the commission on July 1.

The commission, on June 23, voted for Buetow's resignation and allowed him his two weeks vacation. Buetow's response was:

"According to your decision of Monday that I am not to be retained as state highway engineer after July 15 and that I should take my vacation beginning today, I am conforming thereto. With kind personal regards."

Buetow later claimed this letter did not amount to a resignation and that he is still the state highway engineer, although the bureau of personnel has certified three others for that post.

He obtained an alternative writ of mandamus against the bureau and the highway commission ordering that he be placed back on duty October 17 or that the state show cause why he should not be reinstated.

Minutes of the June meeting of the commission carry the notation that the highway engineer had resigned effective July 15, that this was accepted and his vacation allowance granted. Buetow claims the minutes of the meeting were not fairly reported.

Girl Identifies Negro As Robber; Brother Shoots Him

Birmingham, Ala. — (P) — A moment after Miss Nell Williams, society girl, re-affirmed identification of a Negro held as the slayer of her sister and another girl in a mountain hold up, he was shot down in the jail by her brother, Dent Williams.

The shooting came as a dramatic climax to an inquiry Assistant Solicitor J. M. Long was conducting at the Jefferson-co prison last night in the presence of members of the Williams family.

Today the Negro, Willie Peterson, 34, was in a critical condition at a hospital here while city and county officers stood guard with riot guns to prevent possible disorder. More than 100 members of the Birmingham units of the Alabama National guard were mobilized against an emergency.

Peterson was arrested Sept. 23 when Miss Williams pointed him out on the street as the Negro who held up her automobile Aug. 4, shot and fatally wounded her sister, Augusta, and her friend, Miss Jennie Wood, after keeping them captive several hours on a lonely mountain road.

Miss Williams had reiterated identification of Peterson at the jail and officers began to question her further, when her 25-year-old brother whipped out a pistol and fired five times. Two of the shots took effect in the Negro's chest and one in his left arm.

Williams was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to murder and later released under $1,000 bond. Persons present in the jail at the time of the shooting besides Miss Williams and her brother, were her mother and father, chief of police Fred H. McDuff, Sheriff J. F. Hawkins, Long and other officers. Before the conference officers searched all persons entering the jail and Sheriff Hawkins said a gun was taken off Dent Williams at that time.

Roderick Biddow, attorney for Williams, said the young man had hidden the second gun in his waist and that the weapon was overlooked by the officers.

Dent Williams declined to make a statement but his attorney said he was so convinced the Negro was the slayer that he was unable to restrain himself.

APPLETON, WIS.

October 3, 1931

Mr. Ralph Gee,
Advertising Manager,
Appleton Post-Crescent,
Appleton, Wisconsin.

Dear Mr. Gee:

In more than a half-century of clothing experience, I have had innumerable opportunities to observe the results of newspaper advertising. Only this week, however, has the tremendous power of newspaper space been demonstrated to me to its fullest extent.

This took place yesterday—October 1st—the morning after the publication of our double page advertisement in the Post-Crescent, announcing our Going Out of Business Sale.

Long before the doors were opened, our entrance was jammed and the crowd overflowed into the street. Two police officers were needed to keep all these customers in line, awaiting their turn. This condition existed throughout the day, taxing our capacity to the utmost. Our official cash register count showed that 3,976 customers bought at Sugerman's on Thursday alone. Today, the crowds continue to pour in and on Saturday we confidently expect another record-breaking day. We have employed 35 salespeople to meet the demands placed upon us.

You may be interested to know that the Post-Crescent was the only medium used to advertise the sale. While more distant sections were circularized, we must give your newspaper complete credit for drawing the crowds from this area.

Please accept my sincerest thanks for making this final event of my retailing experience the most successful I have ever known.

Very truly yours,

L. E. Sugerman

There would have been more people at the Sugerman Sale, but 3,976 customers were all that thirty-five clerks and two policemen could handle. And, no matter how you look at it, three thousand nine hundred and seventy-six customers mean a lot of business—in good times or otherwise.

It is significant to note that the advertising was concentrated in the Post-Crescent. None of the uncertain media were selected. This newspaper alone was used, and the job was more than well done—as the hundreds upon hundreds who packed into the store will testify.

Again the irresistible power of strongly merchandised advertising in the Post-Crescent has shown itself. It is power available to build sales for every merchant in the Appleton area. Its low cost—between three and four cents per column inch per thousand subscribers—makes it the most economical medium available in this community. Call 543, now, let an ad-man come to your rescue!

APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

MR. COOLIDGE AND PARTY
LOYALTY

Former President Coolidge's pronouncement that he would not be a candidate for the presidency in 1932 and his plea for party loyalty, comes as no surprise to the average political observer. Mr. Coolidge, however much he may desire to be president again, is first of all a party man. The possibility that he might be nominated over Mr. Hoover and elected in 1932 apparently holds no temptation for him.
Perhaps, remembering the Republican fiasco in 1912 when Theodore Roosevelt split the party ticket when he opposed President Taft for reelection,
Mr. Coolidge has withdrawn his name firmly and finally from any consideration for the nomination.

His pronouncement, worded in terse language, stresses party loyalty and harmony and indicates that he will support President Hoover in time of emergency. Although Mr. Coolidge's action on the surface will be received most graciously by the general run of Republicans, there probably are some party leaders close to the President who are a little disappointed in it. The former president made no mention of Mr. Hoover's name. There is nothing in his statement that indicates disapproval, nor enthusiasm, for anything that Mr. Hoover has accomplished.
Of course, Mr. Coolidge is entitled to his own views about the accomplishments and successes of the present administration but we suppose it is good politics for him to keep them to himself, especially at this time.

President Hoover's political fortunes hinge on what 1932 will bring in the way of business revival. If business conditions show an improvement and the unemployment situation is partly solved he may have a chance for re-election. It is unfair to blame Mr.
Hoover for the present slump. But most of those out of work and those who have been hit by the shrinkage in values and those whose wages have been reduced, all vote for a change as did against the Democrats in 1920.
Then, too, many voters will remember the Republican slogan in 1928 which went something like this: "Vote for Hoover and Continued Prosperity." There was also much talk about a full dinner pail and some of those voters whose dinner pails have been empty for quite some time have long memories.
If business conditions do not improve,
Mr. Hoover even with the support and approval of Calvin Coolidge will have a hard row to hoe to be elected. It is human nature in times of stress to want a change and that factor will be hard to overcome next year.

NICARAGUAN CANAL

The army engineers, who have a thorough survey of the projected inter-oceanic canal in Nicaragua and found it practical, will make their formal report in December. It has been expected that action would be recommended by them, and possibly an immediate appropriation will be asked for.

It is now announced that congress will be asked to postpone the project on the double grounds that the federal budget cannot stand it and such construction would not be such to help American employment.

These are sound reasons. Besides,
there is no immediate need of another canal to supplement the Panama canal.

It is different with the St. Lawrence project to which our government is committed along with Canada. That seaway will cost one-third as much.
It should provide considerable work for American labor immediately. The mere announcement of its beginning would stimulate much improvement work in Great Lakes harbors. Three-fourths of the states would feel the business impetus of anticipated traffic improvement, giving the mid-continent advantages that were given to the eastern and western seaboard by the Panama waterway. As far as Wisconsin is concerned the seaway project is of first importance and any effort to put the Nicaraguan canal appropriation ahead of it would be vigorously opposed.

TELLING THE TRUTH

Lincoln Steffens, famous newspaperman of the old muck-raking days, announces at his home in California that he has been practicing the art of dying for 10 years. In fact, he says that to all intents and purposes he is dead, having arranged his affairs, written his will and set himself free from the necessity of earning a living or worrying about what his reading public will think of him. And he likes it very much.

"You see," he says, "now that I am dead I can voice honest opinions. All my life I have been trying not to lie.
But no one wants to know the truth.
Only dead persons and fools speak the truth. I am a happy man because I am dead."

Steffens has earned the right to separate himself from the demands of the living. He has spent an active life telling his fellow-citizens some unpleasant and important truths—about the McNamara case, about city politics, about labor conditions, about the Russian revolution and similar matters—and his fellow-citizens bit him in the ankle for thanks. And he provides us, now, with an illustration of the fact that the most effective and dangerous of censorships does not come from arrogant office-holders but from the general public.

No one wants to know the truth. Is that true? Where the truth is three or four centuries old, it isn't. But where it involves our emotions, or our prejudices, or our pocketbooks—well,
it seems to work out that way.

Who of us, for instance, in the spring of 1929, would have listened to anyone who said that stock prices were far too high and that our industrial machine was geared to too fast a pace?

Who of us, in 1917 and 1918, would have listened patiently to anyone who suggested that Germany was not solely responsible for the World war?

How many of us, today, would listen to an economist who happened to remark that Russia's economic system might be better than our own? Wouldn't we simply tell him to shut up, without bothering to find out if he is right?

So it goes. We are all censors; and men like Mr. Steffens, who have uncovered many truths that run counter to our established notions, know that a writer who has a living to make must step warily.

DR. WILSON'S COMPLAINT

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, Methodist dry leader, having gotten himself into a peck of trouble because of his attacks upon the American Legion convention in Detroit now accuses certain newspaper writers of misquoting him.
That is an old subterfuge and is resorted to frequently by men in public life when they have made a mistake or when they have made some foolish statement or have attacked some cause that brings public condemnation down upon them. Mr. Wilson, as a result of the wave of resentment against him that swept the country following his denunciation of the Legion delegates as a bunch of "drunken hoodlums," is now hedging, and accuses the newspapers of distorting his statement.

As was to be expected he blames the wets for his trouble. Perhaps it is too much to hope for, but the day may come when Mr. Wilson and those in the same boat with him, may wake up and find out that the wet newspapers are not responsible for his unpopularity,
but he, himself, and his fanatical views on the prohibition question. Mr.
Wilson did not complain about the alleged misquotation until a week after he gave out his statement. Isn't it logical to believe that if he had been so flagrantly misquoted that he would have rushed into print the very next day with a correct statement on just what he did say? Perhaps the rising tide of public approval for the Legion's stand might have something to do with Mr. Wilson's belated complaint.

KIWANIS DOLE STAND

As befits an organization dedicated to community service, the Kiwanis international district of Indiana went on record Thursday at its West Baden convention, against the dole system. The resolution also condemned "communistic unemployment insurance." In essence, the plans are the same when the national government is called upon to provide all the money. The Kiwanis clubs did well to link them together.
Experience, gained at ruinous cost, has proved
the fallacy of this social and economic theory.
The British experiment in trying to cure industrial ills with a direct grant from the public treasury to idle men has been condemned. The case was complete when the authors of the scheme were themselves at the head of the government and, facing facts, saw that they had built on a foundation of sand. Even David Lloyd George, who rose to power on the unemployment insurance plan, and first resorted to the dole, was still a member of the house of commons
when a Labor prime minister had to turn to the Conservatives for help.—Indianapolis News.

HAD A terrible time getting this column going yesterday . . . what with the swelling of the weather and the world series and such things all we can do is wait until somebody breaks in with a report of how things are going
. . . our interest was at a white heat yesterday
. . . yes, we had a dime invested in the blamed thing . . .

And so the London conference which Mahatma Gandhi got the boys to hold is beginning to go on the rocks. Not because Mahatma isn't working.
No sir. But the Moslems who are a part of India and are swell physical specimens without an oversupply of brains.
The English are kidding 'em along. And by the time the English get through, the Moslems will be asking for King George's signature and telling Gandhi to put on some pants.

Which is tough on the Mahatma, probably the one smart man in India.

Another good number has come to light—
"Why Darkies Are Born"

The Shadow has told us of another one which we haven't heard yet—"Dancing Sweethearts."

The prison population of the United States is twenty five hundred less than it was three months ago. Following the trend of other major industries, we suppose.

To Tillie, just getting over the effects of her bridge game, may we convey the information that the man who smuggled into the United States on a sardine boat was no magician. The sardines were not yet in cans.

Now the radical politicians of these here United States are fostering a plan whereby Congress will pick the next president of the United States.

Why, the country would be getting along for yatz and yatz without a chief executive. By the time Congress got its mind made up, there'd be a new Congress ready to start the battle all over again.

Nope, the present system may not be so hot,
but at least we do get a president out of it. Poor guy.

The Western Conference officials lifted the eight-game-a-season ban on Big Ten teams this year and will permit them to play an extra game for sweet charity's sake. The games, however, must be played with other conference teams. Which must get the Milwaukee sport writers—who have been yelping for a Marquette-Wisconsin game—simply crazy.

Have a nice time over Sunday and don't let
the week-end week-end drivers get you.

Just Folks
By Edgar A. Cuest

STRANGER

To him it was a foreign field
Where they the roadways knew;
The lack of knowledge he revealed
Men's thoughtless laughter drew.

At careful pace and slow he trod
Where they with boldness ran,
Who doesn't know the way must plod
Along as best he can.

They thought him fool to blunder so,
As mortals often do,
Because he plainly didn't know
The simple things they knew.

But local knowledge little means.
Men baffled when they roam
By strange and unfamiliar scenes
May wise men be at home.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Saturday, Oct. 6, 1906

At a meeting of the board of trustees of Lawrence university held at the office of President Plantz the previous evening, it was decided to raise money for the erection of a boys' dormitory
and Young Men's Christian Association building combined, and also to raise $50,000 to be added to the general endowment fund of the university.

Herman Schelzel had returned from Green Bay
after a brief visit with friends.

Mrs. P. McNorman was at Green Bay spending a few days with friends and relatives.

The Misses Elsie and Lella Thompson left that morning to spend Sunday with relatives at Fond du Lac.

Mrs. A. G. Meating had returned from a visit at New London where she was the guest of Mrs.
George Meating.

H. A. Sharpe returned the previous day from a week's visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A.
Sharpe, Westfield.

Miss Mary Frushy was to leave the following day for Center where she was to have charge of the district school for the ensuing year.

TEN YEARS AGO

Saturday, Oct. 1, 1921

Secretary of Commerce Hoover in behalf of President Harding was preparing an appeal to the country to put into effect at once the emergency recommendations of the national unemployment conference.

The marriage of Miss Gladys Richter, Green Bay, to William Gust, son of Mr. and Mrs. F.
W. Gust, 635 Kernan-ave., was to take place
the following day at the home of the Rev. H.
Richter, Lake Mills.

James Monahan, Chris Roemer, William Straussberger, and H. A. Shannon had gone to Lake Gilmore on a hunting trip.

Mrs. Matilda Kelly left for Mooseheart, Ill., the previous day where she was to make an extended visit with her children.

for Milwaukee where she was to resume her nursing training at St. Joseph hospital after spending the summer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Walter, 618 State-st.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Saiberlich and Oscar, Ervin, Raymond, and Wilmer Saiberlich were among the Appleton people who attended the Beaver Dam fair that week.

Arthur Pardee was spending the weekend in Madison and Chicago.

The cornerstone of the original U. S. capitol building was laid by President Washington on September 18, 1792.

CHEERFUL LITTLE EARFULS!

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

IT IS A CRIME TO NURSE A FELON

There is nothing insidious about felon. When felon happens you know just when and where. Then when it gets started it reaches full maturity within 48 hours—but it depends on how dumb you are, whether you go on suffering all that time and longer or obtain immediate relief and safety.

The characteristic symptoms of felon are throbbing pain, swelling and exquisite tenderness in the discussed phalanx—that's the "joint" farthest away, yet how near it seems when you have a felon!

One thing about a felon, it gives you an excellent means of gauging
your doctor's competence or ability.
If he hears your complaint and takes one good look at the digit without touching it, and proceeds to get ready to anesthetize you and incise
the thing and drain it (not "lance" it), he's a good doctor. If he fiddles around, presses on the already excruciatingly tender digit trying to elicit fluctuation (evidence of pus)
and then stalls along with ointment, poultice, or some such nice old grand-motherly sympathy, you would do well to ease yourself out of his shop
as soon as you can make a polite escape, and look up another doctor who knows something about good conservative surgery. There is only one safe and effective treatment for felon, and that is immediately and thorough surgical incision, under anesthesia of course. Any other treatment is just nursing, and nursing a felon is a crime, even if it costs the victim only a few days of unnecessary suffering. The relief of the pain of a felon—which is inflammation and suppuration under the tight periosteum or covering of the bone—is only one good reason for the immediate free incision down to the bone; the more important reason is to prevent possible serious septicemia (blood poisoning) or extensive damage to the victim's hand which may occur if the incision and drainage is postponed 24 hours.

The ancient practice of "lancing" such infections without the use of an anesthetic was atrocious, not only for the unjustifiable pain of the timid puncturing or stabbing but for the frequent failure of such halfway treatment to bring cure or even relief. Even if you're a dumb hero and don't mind having such torture inflicted on you, don't chance it, for the probability is you'll be little or no better off tomorrow, and your little hero act has gone for naught. A few whiffs of ether, or nitrous oxide (laughing gas) and oxygen, or other anesthetic, and the doctor can do a proper job and assure you a good night's rest and prompt and painless healing.

Immediate and thorough opening of a felon is precisely analogous with immediate extraction of a so-called "ulcerated" tooth—that is, a tooth
with an acute abscess at its root.
I suppose some folk sympathize with the poor fool who walks the floor in misery with a swollen jaw, waiting for the swelling to subside so he can have the tooth extracted. Such a picture makes me laugh. Even a few hours' delay in extracting the tooth (or possibly drilling through it)
to drain the abscess, may permit grave injury to the jaw bone, or even a threat against life itself from septicemia. How comical then, is the picture of the idiot willfully suffering when relief and safety is waiting for him at the dentist's office.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Victim of the "Clinic" Racket

I have been receiving injections for varicose veins at the _____ Clinic for three months, about 100 in all,
and it has cost $600 to date, and very few of the veins have disappeared so far. In their ads over the radio . . . (Mrs. L. McMan)

Answer—If a doctor is good he has enough confidence in himself to practice under his own name. If he is good his pleased patrons see to it that he is kept busy. If he is not so good, he goes into a huddle and trims suckers under the guise of some such imposing name as "clinic," "institute" or "association."
When you elect to deal with such gentry you should not squeal.
Keep it Dark

I am one of the older girls who would like instructions for the Iron and Tea method of darkening the hair. (Mrs. E. S.)

Answer—A teaspoonful (or a lump the size of a chestnut) of iron sulphate (green vitriol) dissolved in a pint of ordinary tea, perfectly black tea, makes a lotion which is quite safe, and according to many readers who have tried it, satisfactory for darkening gray hair. No particular directions, just keep applying a little every day for a time.

Paraffin Injection
Some years ago I went to a beauty specialist and had the lines from the base of nose to corners of the mouth removed. I did not know till later that they injected paraffin.
For a while I was quite pleased.
But later I found that the paraffin slipped down to the corners of my eyes, and there it is in two lumps which makes my mouth sag dreadfully. I know paraffin can't be removed, but isn't there a face lifting operation that can remedy my plight? (H. T. E.)

Answer—Possibly a real surgeon can do something to improve your appearance. Beware of beauty appliquists or self-commended "plastic surgeons."

Corn Starch Powder
Have found cornstarch powder excellent for chafing. Will it do any harm to use cornstarch powder instead of talcum powder for the baby? (Mrs. H. M. R.)

Answer—No, it is quite harmless and soothing—a liberal dusting of the body with cornstarch powder is grateful in many cases of hives, erythema and ordinary heat rash.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE large macaw was quite a sight. Its head and wings were colored bright. And how the bird could chatter! "Geel! Who taught him how to talk?" asked Clowny. "He's a clever bird. Such chattering I've never heard. Let's put him on the ground and see how funny he can walk."

The bird cried, "No! I'm too tired out. I do not want to walk about."
This made the Tyns laugh out-loud. The Travel Man then said loudly, "Macaw, learn how to talk real quick. To teach them really is no trick. But, come with me. It's time for all of you to be in bed."

"Tomorrow we are moving out of this town. I have no doubt that you will like the next place, too. Who's ready to set foot?" "We all are," Coppy loudly cried. "And that sounds like a fine boat ride."
"You're right," replied the Travel Man. "We'll sleep aboard the boat."

Next morning when they all jumped out of bed there was a merry shout. The boat had landed at a port. "Twas time to go ashore.
One Tyn shouted, as they ran,
"Where are we?" And the Travel Man replied, "This town is Bahla and some new sights are in store."

They found the town a pretty one and Scouty said, "We'll have some fun just looking round. Let's take our time so we won't miss a thing. I'd like to window shop all day. Just seeing sights will seem like play. And as the bunch walked down the street they all began to sing.

Their song, however, stopped real short when Carpy cried, "Ah! Here's some sport." He pointed to a monkey that would make a dandy pet.
The monkey chattered long and loud in welcoming the Tyn crowd.
The Travel Man then told the boys
it was a marmoset.

A Bystander
In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington You can tell 'em
by their auto license tag in the capital city of the United States.

If you rate, then your number is low.

The social and official character of Washington is revealed in the allocation of automobile tags, to a greater extent perhaps, than in any other city of the country.

The low numbers are for the privileged. If you are high, then socially and officially you are classed below those with low numbers.

Thus the tags for 1932 are distributed:

No. 1, the Vice President of the United States.

No. 2, the speaker of the house of
And so on—

Motor Numerology

White House cars usually are tagged from 300 to 410. Members of the President's cabinet follow.

Other numbers up to 1,000 are held by senators, representatives, subordinate government officials, ex-government officials of all varieties, presumably distinguished private citizens and anyone else who has enough pull to get one.

These "privileged" tags have no accompanying letter. All other numbers are preceded by a letter and run from 1 on up.

Inside the limits of the first group of the unlettered 1,000 there are, of course individuals of special and super-special privileges.

Members of the diplomatic corps,
for example, and members of congress are some of these.

In addition to these privileged low numbers, their tags bear identifications "diplomatic" and "congressional."

Members of the diplomatic corps,
under the law of "diplomatic immunity," escape arrest by Washington policemen. "Congressional" usually permits freedom as well.

Under a new traffic act the 1932
tags carry a color scheme of red, white and blue. They are the first of their kind. The plate has a white background. The border and "1932" are in blue. The number itself and designation are in red.

Famed Numbers

There have been some famous capital city tag numbers which have made the automobiles of celebrities easily identified as they passed along the streets.

The late Chief Justice Taft's limousine for years was No. 50.
The late Nick Longworth preferred No. 82.

Justice McReynolds of the supreme court for a long time had No.
62. Incidentally, he owns an open roadster which he drives himself.
He wears a leather coat in cold weather.

COUNT CZERNIN SPEECH

On Oct. 3, 1917, Count Czernin, minister of foreign affairs of Austria-Hungary, delivered an address at Budapest which created considerable stir among the belligerent nations and was regarded as evidence of growing and acute necessity of peace. In part, he said:

"Before we conclude peace we must have the positive certainty that our present opponents have relinquished the idea of economic war."

"The question of indemnities which the Entente (Allies) is always advancing assumes remarkable completion when one considers the devastation their armies have wrought.

"If our enemies refuse to listen and compel us to continue this murder, then we reserve the right to revise our terms."

Now that Al Capone's income has been cut to $2,000,000 we can expect the gangs to take matters into their own hands and bring back prosperity.

And if more pay cuts are in the offing, it won't be long before we're all at sea.

The Soviets, says a 'pastor',
wouldn't tolerate a 'Follies' show.
Probably would be more than they could bare.

Seen And Heard
In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York — Albertina Rasch won't take a male pupil for ballet training in her school of dancing.

"I simply can't stand to see men flitting about that way, and I wouldn't teach one to do it," Madame Rasch declares.

I learned that from her today
when she asked me to drop by and look over the latest group of girls to be polished off for a Broadway production.

Between her amusing clucks at her pretties, like a mother hen with a brood of chicks, this once superb danseuse chats along about her ideas on a dance form which she has modernized but refuses to distort.

"The ballet, it is essentially familial," she asserts.

The next second she is clucking
at a redhead:

"Adele, you simply must stop making such faces! We don't want to scare people out front. Try to charm them."

Ballet In Idiom

The girls accept her temperamental, usually good-natured remonstrances with smiles rather than winces. A number of them she is training without pay.

"Ah, me," sighs the matronly shaped madame who once was as light on her toes as a humming bird in the branches, "it does seem that mostly the ones with the best talent have no money."

But if they have talent, there is hope of indirect compensation for Madame Rasch when she presents them in her groups. The producers give her a blanket contract for a troupe. She, in turn, pays the girls.

Despite her own thorough training in the classical school, she re-trained her respect for the demands of modernity.

"A sulted art is of no good any more—even for art's sake. I have striven to create a ballet in the idiom—an American ballet. But I do not believe the new art need be grotesque or awkward."

CHICAGO PLANS TO REDUCE ITS OPERATING COST

Mayor's Plan, It Is Believed, Will Pull City from Hole

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
Chicago—(CPA)—A reduction of 15 per cent in the operating expenses of Chicago's government is contemplated in the program for financial reorganization which will restore the city's credit and place her back among the nation's solvent municipalities.

After five months of financial darkness here, city officials think that they can see light, but only at the expense of an end to the jazz era of spending. Political pickings are to be much skimpier than during the recent period of high finance.

The plan for re-financing submitted by Mayor Anton J. Cermak to the special revenue commission now shaping legislation to submit to a special session of the legislature later this month, involves some new bonding, but most significantly it calls for reductions in expenditures. It does not, however, provide for the rescue of the Chicago school board, which still is dominated by followers of William Hale Thompson. Nearly 15,000 teachers and school employees, unpaid since last April 15, remain with only an uncertain prospect for a pay day. Other city employees are paid up to the present but with only two weeks' payroll left in the treasury.

As a sample of what may be done with modern city government costs, the local controller, appearing before the revenue commission, pointed out that payroll accounts had been cut from $4,468,000 in April to $3,410,000 in August, with a further reduction in September. A 10 per cent horizontal salary reduction also is contemplated, although rather bitterly opposed.

The major proposal is a $27,000,000 bond issue to take up the slack in remaining bonding power. He would increase Chicago's working capital by $12,000,000 and retire some obligations coming due. Then, if people can be induced to pay their taxes, with one third of the 1929 levy still uncollected, the local government could get on its feet.

A reduction of from 40 to 50 per cent in the rate of tax on real estate is sought by powerful interests in this city. New taxes, including an income levy and a sales tax, are expected to be part of the scheme of reorganization which will be brought before the state legislature when it convenes in special session.

Chicago thinks that her problems of finance are being worked out while many other cities are just running into their troubles.

Many Activities Resumed With Arrival Of October

With schools opened, the football season under way, and organizations swinging into their winter programs, October promises to be a full month. Today the Lions club is entertaining its international president, Julian C. Hyer, Fortworth, Texas. The Y. M. C. A. membership drive will open Oct. 5, and continue until Oct. 9, and the Salvation Army and Appleton Woman's club financial drives are now in progress. A group of 30 legislators will hold a meeting in Appleton Sunday, the student council of Appleton high school will hold its first dance Saturday evening, the woman's club swimming classes will open next Wednesday, and Dr. Rufus Bagg will open his series of lectures at the woman's club next Monday. Local teachers will attend the state teachers' meeting in Milwaukee next week.

On Oct. 10 the United Commercial Travelers will hold a booster meeting in Appleton, on Oct. 9 Mrs. H. Y. McMullen, chairman of the International relations committee of the State Federation of Women's clubs will speak at a joint citizenship meeting of the woman's club, Business and Professional women, and the A. A. U. W. at the Methodist church.

Members of the Meating educational tour will hold a reunion at the Conway hotel Oct. 17, on Oct. 19 the Welsh Imperial Singers will appear at Appleton high school, and on Oct. 23 Richards Crooks, leading tenor, will open the Community Artists series at Memorial chapel. The 120th Artillery band will give a benefit revue sometime in October.

The athletic calendar includes only one home game for the Appleton high school team, that with Oshkosh on Oct. 31. The Lawrence college team will play Beloit here on Oct. 17, Carroll here on Oct. 17, and on Oct. 24, the annual Lawrence Homecoming, they will play Ripon. The Green Bay Packers schedule for the rest of the season, in which hundreds of Appleton persons are interested, is the New York Giants on Oct. 4, the Chicago Cardinals on Oct. 11, the Philadelphia Yellow-jackets on Oct. 18, and the Providence, R. I., Steamrollers on Oct. 25.

That one little kindergartener in Lincoln school had the right idea during the fire drill there this week. When he seemed reluctant about leaving the building with the other children the teacher asked him why he didn't hurry. The youngster sagaciously replied, "Well, I had a hat and coat!"

That county officials are thinking seriously of asking the county board to put screens on the windows and doors at the courthouse to keep out flies. The officials point out that during the last month they have waged a continuous war against the pests, which make work difficult. Every office is equipped with one or two fly swatters and from the lights and ceilings there are suspended long strips of sticky paper to catch the flies. One official said he plans to organize the county officials into teams and start a competitive "swat the fly" campaign.

Hoover Gets Many Plans For Industry

Washington—(CP)—President Hoover is giving intensive study to ways and means of putting the economic structure of the nation on a firmer foundation.

A variety of proposals are under discussion. Whether any of them will reach the stage of actual fruition in the near future remains speculative.

The suggestions reach into many diverse ramifications of the business and economic system of the United States, and touch also upon the world depression.

It was said at the White House today that no one new plan had been produced as a panacea for the ills of industry. The present effort is a continuation of the studies the president has been making with a view to easing the situation wherever possible.

At home, the president's efforts relate to such subjects as the relief of agriculture, the establishment of a better permanent fabric of employment, and maintenance of the standard of living.

In the foreign field, Mr. Hoover is preparing to speak on international trade next week at a meeting of Pan-American commercial representatives here. He is gathering material also for his forthcoming conversations with Premier Laval of France.

One feature and another of these various topics were examined yesterday at a series of conferences with some of the president's principal advisers on economic subjects. Again today, Ogden Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, was an early caller at the White House.

Along with all this, the chief executive also is keeping close watch on governmental expenditures, so the government itself may help and not complicate the situation by its fiscal operations.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stewart, River Rouge, Mich., spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner and family, Appleton.

Help Child In Efforts To Grow Up

BY ANGELO PATRI
The music teacher stood ready to go home, and as she pulled on her gloves she said to Minnie, "You practice well this week and you can play that piece at the concert."

Father who has been in anguish for the past half hour while Minnie had thumped and tumbled and made fresh starts in an attempt to play a simple melody, started nervously. "What? Play in public? When she can't strike one note out of four? Don't be silly. You can't play."

All the light died out of Minnie's face. Practice was the meanest period of her day. She liked music but she hated to practice. She would come so easy that when you sat down before the piano and made beautiful fluttering gestures over the keyboard it ripped out in heavenly cascade. It never did. Instead of heavenly cascades it was one two three. One two three.

"Yes she can. All Minnie needs to do is to master this lesson just once, get it thoroughly, and she will play it beautifully. You get up early enough tomorrow. Minnie, work half an hour, maybe fifteen minutes, and then in the afternoon, get at it again. Keep at it until you get over the hard place. Once you get over it you will never have such a hard time again. I promise you that. You can play this piece. I know you can."

Father grunted and returned to his paper. Minnie watched him with doubting eyes. Then she turned to the teacher. "He says I can't so I can't."

"Well, Minnie, I'm the teacher and I say you can. We'll show him. Here. Sit right down. Listen while I play it. Now, you get right into it and do it. I'll stand by and help."

Somehow it went easier. Minnie forgot father was listening. Indeed he too had forgotten for he was asleep. "I'll practice tomorrow. I'll play at the concert. Mother will make me a new dress."

Buoyed on the new dress and the teacher's faith Minnie toiled on and the night of the concert played her piece, if not with finished perfection, with creditable skill.

When a child is trying to do something, even when you are sure in your heart that it cannot be done, keep your cold water for another occasion. Don't drown the fire of the feeblest enthusiasm. Encourage them always. One accomplishment helps the next. Success wins success. The attitude of mind that you set in yourself and in the child is of the utmost importance. It is fatal to cultivate a "can't" idea.

When the wish is quite impossible — as when a child wants to dig and lay a foundation in the front lawn — Buster can have a nice new house listen through to the end. Talk the project over. Survey the land. Discuss the ways and means, lead the way to the place behind the privet hedge, encourage the first spadeful. Three will be few to follow them. Then direct the interest. Interest is so precious we must lose none. Suggestions of "Can't," are dangerous.

BLACK DANIEL
America has had so few generations in which to produce national heroes that her list of great men is sadly limited as yet. Biographies of Lincoln and Washington, Alexander Hamilton et al are written nearly as often as the months come and go. In fact, so destitute of new literary material are our writers that they have even bothered to use Al Caine as the figure around which to drape their observations about this present generation. And most of us are a little ashamed of such a subject, even though it is used as a last resort.

Daniel Webster has escaped the attention of most biographers, although of all historical characters, his life had the most color. BLACK DANIEL by Honore W. Morrow, published by William Morrow and company, and available in Appleton at the Century Book Shop, is given an excellent rating as a novel among Eastern reviewers. The fact that it is the romance—the love story—of Daniel Webster probably accounts for its place among novels instead of biographies, although it certainly could hold its own in either category.

The difference between this story and many other historical romances is one of emphasis. Daniel Webster and the lovely woman he courted and won are the central figures, and the effect of the love story upon Webster's political life is the plot. Many biographers are afraid to use what personal material is available to show how and why a great man's life took shape as it did; or else they over emphasize the importance of one personal incident and color their entire writing with that one thing.

Naturally it is difficult to understand the reasons for many things in the lives of these men when so many years and so much obscurity clouds the issues. But Mrs. Morrow does a very reasonable thing in BLACK DANIEL. She discovered that Webster wanted to leave public life; that he was discouraged with the way politics had gone against him. And she went to the root of the trouble and found that this his discouragement

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 by NEA Service, Inc.

I N a quick, intuitive flash, Sue decided to play her cards honestly with Thomas Andrews.

"The paper which I removed from the desk is in my pocketbook," she answered calmly. "Would you like to see it?"

"Well, no... That is..."

"Yes, I understand perfectly," Sue answered, calmly. The man was off his guard. She could see that. She didn't dare tell him that she had been trying to help Jack. She couldn't disclose any of Jack's plans, although this will had nothing to do with them.

"What were you going to do?" Blackmail me for taking it?" Sue went on.

"Oh, no, nothing of the sort." He was hunting for words. Sue sensed his situation. He had thought that she would deny knowledge of the paper. That he could frighten her.

"But just the same," he told her, "remember that I know you have that paper."

"I'm going back to see that desk again tonight. Would you care to come along?" she asked on another sudden bold note.

He didn't believe her. She knew it.

"I won't come in but I'll drive you to the house," he said, and Sue accepted.

She got into his car, not knowing just how she could manage to put the paper in the drawer where it belonged.

At the house she met the woman, and went in to look at the desk.

"The old thing fascinates you, doesn't it?" the woman said.

"Very much," Sue answered.

The woman was closing the door. The night was warm. It was an unnecessary gesture. Now she put down the blind. Sue was preparing the stage for melodrama. When she turned her eyes were hard and her mouth was set in a straight, tight line.

"And now may I have the paper that you found in that desk last night?" she asked.

"The paper that I found in the desk?" Sue repeated.

"Yes. And be quick about it. I've been trying to get my hands on that thing for a long time. But I couldn't work the desk. I've threatened to sell it so my husband would produce it. When you came I thought maybe you would buy it and let me see it. I could get him in my power. But I didn't think that you yourself were after the paper. Not until today!"

"What made you change your mind and think so then?" Sue asked.

"A man called me and told me. 'Oh, I see.' So that had been Thomas Andrews' game. Sue was thinking. He was a coward, too, an underhanded coward.

"If the paper you wanted was in the secret drawer I'll find the drawer for you," Sue answered. "I'll let you take it out yourself."

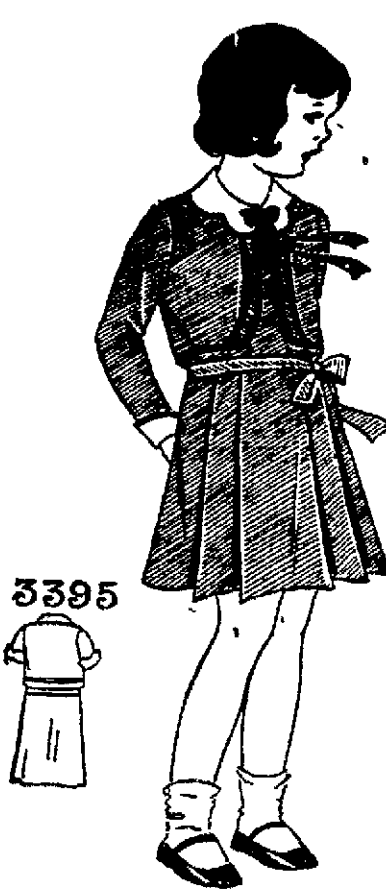

The woman hesitated. "Fair enough," she said at last.

Sue opened her pocketbook. She had managed to get the will so it couldn't be seen. A scrap of a rose handkerchief and her gloves were helping to conceal it. Now she got to work on the desk while the woman stood near.

But she couldn't manage to put the paper back, under her watchful eyes. Suddenly the woman's hand came over her own. There was a clack over her paper.

NEXT: The will is explained. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

But for your own sake, you mustn't let this impulse get the better of you. You mustn't shut out the rest of the world so that you and your husband may be all in all to each other. You mustn't cut off friendships which have stood you in good stead for years.

The day will come when you'll want friends again, and pleasant outside interest—when you'll find that it's dangerous to live utterly dependent on another human being being for all companionship—and then you won't find it easy work to bring back your circle of friends if you've deliberately alienated them.

Find room in your life, even now, for the people who love you and who would still be congenial were you not so obsessed with your husband. Make yourself pleasant and agreeable so that old ties will not be severed. In the end, you'll be glad that you didn't cut loose, for you'll need those old friends and interests to keep your marriage as happy as it is now.

Dear Miss Vane: I should like to send in a word of appreciation for the letter you wrote some time ago to the mother who felt that she couldn't bear to send her darling daughter out into a hard cruel world. I myself was that kind of mother and I can see now that my child was more thoroughly spoiled than I ever realized. I had given her every reason to believe that she was the most important person in

PINK AND WHITE COMPLEXION IS "IN" THIS YEAR

BY ALICIA HART

Complexions must be "in the pink" to be really smart this winter. The olive and peach skins of summer will give way to a healthy pink—or an interesting white—to complement the elegant costumes decreed by fashion for cold weather wear.

Of course, if hours spent in the sunlight have left you very tanned, continue to wear dark powder until your bleaching creams have bleached your skin to its normal color. Then experiment with white and flesh colored powders and a lighter, rough until you attain that fashionable pink or white effect.

You can add a little lavender powder to your regular daytime powder for evening wear. Don't try to wear it on the street, but it does give a white, soft, lovely tint to your skin under artificial lights.

Use a lighter, brighter lipstick. Blue eyes shadow is better with a 'blonde' complexion than brown or purple, which are the brunette shades.

The juice of two lemons (instead of one, which is the regular formula for complete removal of soap from the hair) can be strained into the last rinsing water after your shampoo. Or, you might put a quarter of a cup of peroxide in the rinsing water. Neither of these will actually bleach your hair, but they will tend to keep it as light as it is and bring out the high-lights.

Lemon juice is excellent for bleaching the hands and arms and buttermilk and tomato juice are good for the face and neck. Of course, you can buy a dozen different varieties of bleaching creams and most of them are very effective. If you don't use a bleaching cream, then be sure and use one of the various home bleaches and make your complexion as blond as possible even if your hair is brunette.

SHEBOYGAN RESORTS ROBBED BY FIVE MEN

Sheboygan—(AP)—Five men armed with revolvers believed stolen from the local national guard headquarters Friday held up and robbed two roadhouses near here and escaped in a blue sedan after a chase through downtown Sheboygan. One of the men fired five times at Motorcyclist Policeman Martin DeGus during the chase. He was uninjured.

At 12:15 a. m. the men, all masked, entered the Madix club owned by Mrs. Mae Ziebler. Mrs. Mercedes Riddle, an employee, and Helen Maebach, St. Paul, were alone in the roadhouse. They had just taken most of the cash out of the cash drawer and the men obtained only $6.

During the robbery one of the men fired a shot through the floor. Five minutes later the five held up the Elmer Ahrens place forcing Ahrens and Herman Munster, a customer, to lie on the floor. They obtained only $4.

KOHLER OFFICER OF MANUFACTURER'S BODY

Portland, Ore.—Police raided a lottery joint in the same building where Kwoong Mow ran a Chinese laundry. Mow was taken away from the peaceful ironing of shirts to appear in court for proceedings which would result in his losing his license.

A BARGAIN for us

is a BARGAIN for you

We've learned a few things behind the grocery counter, and one of them is not to argue with a woman. So, as long as our customers want good food at low prices, that's what we're going to give them, and without any words about it.

We keep our prices down by keeping our expenses down, and by keeping our profit down; and by selling for less when we buy for less.

When we find a bargain in the food markets of the world, it is a bargain for you. The money we save by buying in large quantities does not mean higher profits for us, but lower prices for our customers.

ELECT WILEMAN HEAD OF COUNTY TEACHER GROUP

Institute Held in Conjunction With Second Annual Meeting of Association

Special to Post-Crescent
Chilton—C. H. Wileman, principal of the Stockbridge high school, was elected president of the Calumet County Teachers' association at the second annual meeting held Friday at Chilton high school. A county teachers' institute was held in conjunction with the meeting.

Other officers elected are: vice president, J. Harold Armstrong, instructor in social science and athletic coach in the Chilton high school; rural delegate to the delegate assembly at the Wisconsin State Teachers' association, Walter Davis; high school delegate to the assembly, A. L. McMahon, instructor of agriculture in the Chilton high school. A. W. Carlson, principal of the Hillbert high school, was elected secretary and treasurer last year for a period of three years. The institute conductors were Profs. A. S. Barr and Curtis Merriman of the School of Education of the University of Wisconsin, and S. M. Thomas and Miss Della Kibbe of the state department of public instruction.

Prof. Merriman gave three addresses before the institute, talking for his theme the question "Is Education a Profession?" He demonstrated the importance of the teacher for every forward movement in the field of education, there has been a parallel advance in the field of business.

Speaking on "How to Study" Mr. Merriman declared that much of the weakness found among the university freshmen is traceable to teaching of pupils in the grades that fails to give them the ability to read and outline the material in their elementary course of study. Prof. Barr discussed "Problems in Secondary Education." Teachers fall into two general classes, he said—those who succeed and those who wither up and fall by the way. The successful teacher is openminded and never satisfied with routine procedure. In the domain of education as elsewhere progress demands constant, purposeful, thoughtful experimentation. Miss Kibbe talked to the teachers of the elementary grades upon the reading program below the high school. Mr. Thomas spoke on the Ear Marks of a Good School, saying that supervisors' rating of a school begins before he enters the building. The way pupils react on the playground, and in the street, and the appearance of the school grounds are factors in placing the work of the school. The general attitude of pupils in the study halls and classrooms is a very powerful factor in passing upon the character of the school, the speaker affirmed.

Miss Anna Barnard, county superintendent of schools, stated that the attendance was one hundred percent and expressed herself as highly gratified with the work of the institute.

COMPLETE RAZING OF TWO FRAME BUILDINGS

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Work has been completed of razing the two frame buildings on N. Water-st on ground purchased some time ago by A. C. Buss of this city. Work will begin soon on a new fireproof building to be used as a modern dry-cleaning establishment. The building will be connected with the small structure at the rear of the lot, erected some time ago by Mr. Buss. The new building will extend to the street, and will be modern. The work is being done by the Schoenrock Construction Co., and will extend over a period of several weeks.

Several other improvements are being made to other business houses, two store fronts having been repainted recently. The Vandree department store has been repainted a light gray, as has the Sader Jewelry store, both located on N. Water-st. Work is being hurried on the Stofor Harness shop, where a modern store front is being built. ## Housewives Worried Over Scarcity Of Canning Jars

New London—What to do? Here are late pears and peaches, apples and grapes and quantities of tomatoes. Here are the last cucumbers, onions and peppers. And the housewife faces the problem of a canless era such as she has never confronted before. The past summer has been most productive in the finest varieties of fruit. Peaches, plums, pears and tomatoes were never so plentiful or so cheap. Grapes have been low in price and sugar reaches an astonishing low mark. Besides the conventional prices and the quantities of fruit and vegetables there has been the constant reminder of a depression and a long cold winter. So the sailors of old who went down to the sea in ships had nothing on New London's housewives who daily go down to the cellar with cans. And the result is that nearly every grocer has experienced extreme difficulty in filling orders for cans. One grocer says that he cannot get quart jars in this city or at his wholesalers and the demand for the half gallon jars, which is nearly as great, is impossible to fill. Another local grocer has difficulty in filling orders for glass top cans, and many stores have exhausted their entire supply of cans of all kinds.

PORTAGE-CO CHILDREN GET "POTATO VACATION"

Stevens Point—(AP)—Most everywhere school children will have to wait until Thanksgiving time for a moratorium on education. But in Portage-co there is a "potato vacation," which is just one more reason children hereabouts are proud of Portage-co.

By the first week in October, according to custom inaugurated by the pioneers, most of the rural schools will suspend for two weeks to give children an opportunity to help with the potato harvest. And small boys trudging wearily to school size up the potato vines to speculate on how soon he can say goodbye to Old Man Arithmetic.

The vacation is delayed uncommonly long this year, for killing frosts haven't stopped growth. Potato buyers estimated that at the beginning of October as much as 75 per cent of the late crop was still growing.

It is estimated that 25,000 acres of potato country have planted to potatoes this year. On the basis of 75 bushels per acre this would mean a crop of 1,875,000 bushels. Before the potato is actually out of the ground it is difficult to judge how it fared through the summer, but planters believe the yield will be much smaller than the average. It took down appreciably by drought.

There is an enrollment of about 4,000 in schools which will observe the potato vacation. It is not observed in high schools.

SHIOCTON FARMER HARVESTS LARGE YIELDS OF CORN

Archie Allen One of Leading Raisers of Corn in County

BY W. F. WINSEY
Shiocton—Archie Allen, route 1, is one of the leading corn growers of Outagamie-co.

Other farmers of Outagamie-co have more acres of corn than has Mr. Allen but not as large yields of ripe corn. Other farmers have as many silos as Mr. Allen but none have as large silos. No other farmer has filled so many silos or as large silos with as few acres as Mr. Allen this fall. Very few farmers have husked as much high grade seed corn and crib corn as he has.

On one end of Mr. Allen's stable and connected with it is a new concrete silo, 12 by 62 feet, from the peak of which he can look down on many other silos in the vicinity. This silo is filled to the brim with part of Allen's corn crop of this season. At the other end of his stable and connected with it are two other silos both filled with corn crop of this season. The dimensions of one of these silos is 12 by 38 feet, and the other 12 by 30 feet.

Mr. Allen raised his big corn crop mostly Golden Glow No. 12, and the balance White Cap Dent on 34 acres. He is husking 500 bushels of ripe crib corn, is curing 70 bushels of excellent seed corn, and has about eight acres of cornstalks still shocked up in his field.

This season Mr. Allen threshed 1,000 bushels of oats and barley of good quality from 30 acres but owing to a thin stand the yield is not up to his standard. He stored the straw in one of his mows.

He has five acres of a seeding of alfalfa, four years old, that after being pastured close this fall looks better than ever before. He also has an eight-acre spring seeding of alfalfa that, since the rains, is showing up well. He raised nine acres of millet this season and two acres of soybeans. He expects to have hay enough for his 40 Holsteins including 32 milkers.

He uses plenty of commercial fertilizers on his meadows and cornfields.

THREE BADGER RADIO STATIONS PRAISED

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Three Wisconsin radio stations are included in the list of 117 stations throughout the country cited by the department of commerce's radio division for excellence of operation during August in remaining within 50 cycles of their prescribed frequencies. Two others remained within 100 cycles.

A deviation of 200 cycles is the present maximum allowed by the Federal Radio Commission but this is soon to be cut to 50 cycles to lessen static and interference.

The Wisconsin stations remaining within 50 cycles of their frequencies were WEEC at Superior, WISN and WTMJ at Milwaukee. The two keeping within 100 cycles were WIBA at Madison and WHEB at Sheboygan.

A total of 304 stations out of the more than 600 in the country were tested by the department so that other Badger State Stations may deserve honorable mention. Of the 304 tested, 33.5 per cent kept under the 50 cycle mark.

New Pictures And New Stars To Be Seen At Theatres Next Week

ARLISS FILM COMING TO WARNER THEATRE

Famous Character Actor to Appear Here in "Alexander Hamilton"

George Arliss, greatest character actor of the day, comes to the Appleton theatre Sun., Mon., Tues., and Wed. in Warner Bros. screen version of his brilliantly successful play, "Alexander Hamilton."

This is the second American Mr. Arliss has portrayed on the screen, his first being in "The Millionaire." While there is a vast difference between the self-made business man of "The Millionaire" and the stormy aristocrat, "Alexander Hamilton," Mr. Arliss makes both men forceful and living.

The scenes are laid in Philadelphia at the critical period when Hamilton was seeking to establish the credit of the country, and when the choice of a site for the national capitol was a burning question. Reynolds, a malcontent, plots Hamilton's ruin, and for that purpose sends his alluring wife, to him to ask for funds for her return to her father, to escape the cruelty of her husband. The fiery champion of human rights becomes involved in an affair with the woman. The claim is made that he has used government funds—and Jefferson, Monroe and other great men of the day visit him to accuse him of his misdeeds. The unexpected way in which he clears himself of the false charge—while confessing his human susceptibility to feminine wiles is one of the many brilliant dramatic scenes.

His excellent support includes Doris Kenyon as Betty Hamilton, Dudley Digges as Senator Timothy Roberts; Alan Mowbray as General George Washington; Ralf Harolde as Mr. Reynolds; June Collyer as the alluring Mary Reynolds; Charles Middleton as Chief Justice John Jay; Montague Love as Thomas Jefferson; Morgan Wallace as James Monroe; Lionel Belmore as General Schuyler; Gwendolin Logan as Martha Washington and John T. Murray as Count Talleyrand. Others in the cast are Charles Evans, John Larkin, Evelyn Hall, Russell Simpson and James Durkin. Over a thousand extras take part as Revolutionary soldiers and citizens. John Adolfi directed.

WIDE VARIETY OFFERED IN MARX BOYS' HUMOR

The Four Marx Brothers do not miss a trick when it comes to providing comedy on the screen. In fact, Director Norman McLeod, who has directed their most recent and most frolicsome opus, "Monkey Business," coming to the Fox theatre, starting Monday.

Groucho with his heavy mustache and his long cigar is the wise fellow. His dialogue is carefully combed so that practically every speech is a laugh line, ranging from smart chatter to the sophisticated type of puns. He also makes use of what seems idle and incoherent chatter which many leading comedians employ together. He also upholds the satire in the picture's humor-including take-offs.

Chico plays the dumb fellow who doesn't understand and gets things mixed. His comedy lines contain many puns. He never speaks out of dialect.

Harpo is one of the worlds greatest pantomimists, the earliest and longest-lived form of comedy. His art is purely slap-stick.

Laugh situations have always been the backbone of screen comedy. The four boys combine forces for this.

Zeppo, as is the case with most straight men, is often overlooked when one weighs the comedy of a production. However, the foil is always important and being one for three comedians is no easy task.

"TRAVELING HUSBANDS" HITS BRAND NEW NOTE

Smoking cars and upper berths... lunch at a buyer from Peoria... a letter to the wife and friends for the blonde at the Biltmore Plaza... flashes through hotel rooms with lingered models helping the tired salesmen forget their business the morning after a heavy head and a big order to land. That's "Traveling Husbands," playing at the Fox theatre Saturday at the mid-night show and Sunday only.

Paul Sloane, director, has taken three traveling men bent on a little partying over the weekend. To this whoopee-raising trio, he adds three hotel vamps. For punch we have the entrance of Barry, a youngster in the "drumming" racket, who falls in love with the daughter of a man he can't sell. Everything goes along in a hilarious vein when Evelyn Brent appears, sees her sweetheart with Barry's girl, and, well, you'll have to see it in fine performances, as a matter of fact. High Harbert's wise cracking, Frank McHugh's cock-eyed scenes, Spencer Tracy Charter's comedy. Another comparative new-comer is Constance Cummings. Dorothy Peterson does her usual high-grade work as the little wife back home.

BEBE DANIELS STARS IN "MALTESE FALCON"

"The Maltese Falcon," a mystery melodrama with Bebe Daniels in the starring role, is the Warner Brothers picture at the Elite Theatre. The story is an adaptation of the novel of the same name, by Dashiell Hammett, ex-Pinkerton detective, whose stories have become best-sellers in the last few years.

As suggested by the title, Miss Daniels plays an entirely new type of role as a member of one of the weirdest crime rings in modern fiction. A venturesome actress in an adventure role.

Roy Del Ruth directed from the script prepared by Mando Fulton, Brown Holmes and Lucien Hubbard.

They're as Funny as Ever

GROUCHO MARX HARPO MARX
The Four Marx Brothers in "Monkey Business," who will be seen at the Fox theatre for three days, starting Monday.

South Carolina spends more money for fertilizer than any state in the United States.

"CHANCES" COMING TO ELITE THEATRE

Doug Fairbanks, Jr., Is Star of Thrilling World War Picture

"Chances," the spectacular romance of the World War at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday is the initial starring vehicle which First National provides for Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

The romance is that of two young British soldiers — brothers — who both fall in love with the same girl. Temporarily miffed at the one brother, the girl promises to marry the other when the war ends. She later reveals the fact that she is not in love with the youth to whom she is engaged. The working out of the strange conflict comes in the midst of a night bombardment on the Western front.

Rose Hobart plays the girl. The brother is portrayed by Anthony Bushell. Others in the cast are Holmes Herbert, Mary Forbes, Edmund Breon, Harry Allen, Jeanne Fenwick, Edward Morgan and Tyrrell Davis.

Young Fairbanks gives his finest characterization as Jack Ingleside—brave, brutal, laughing, loving, human unknown of the Great war.

5 MORE LEGION POSTS TO FIGHT FOREST FIRES

Madison —(P)— Five more American Legion posts have informed Adjutant General Ralph Immel that they are willing to cooperate with the conservation commission in detecting and suppressing forest fires.

The addition of the posts brings to 428 the number of American Legion forest fire fighters. Gen. Immel said today. Twenty-four posts are now organized.

The new groups are the Romulus Carl Berens post, Stevens Point, 40 men; Orville L. Arnold post, Sparta, 12 men; Mike Darling post, Birnamwood, three units of post membership; Spauldy post, Augusta, 15 men; Roy Kelley post, Ashland, 40 men.

Action on the state forestry's problem and on a cooperative agreement to regulate production of lumber mills is expected at a meeting of the governor's council here tomorrow. An advisory citizens' committee and a committee of seven lumbermen is to be selected to enforce the agreement.

LEON JANNEY BOY HERO OF "PENROD AND SAM"

Hail, hail, the gang's all here—or will be all here Oct. 8, 9, 10 next when "Penrod and Sam," First National's brilliant screen version of the immortal Booth Tarkington story of boyhood and girlhood, too, for that matter—comes to the Appleton Theatre, for an extended run.

Penrod is played by Leon Janney, the "regular" boy who won such success in "Courage" with Belle Bennett; in "Old English" with George Arliss and in "The Doorway to Hell" with Lew Ayres. Penrod's crackled pal Sam is portrayed with delightful roughness by the no less famous boy-actor, Junior Coghlan—and there are a score of other rough-neck, romping youngsters, not forgetting, Duke, the ill-fated and beloved dog.

An interesting fact about the canine in question is that the same dog who so wisely acts the part in the silent version, nine years ago—acts the part in the present picture. The same director, William Beaudine, also was in charge. Mr. Beaudine, himself the father of a large brood of kiddies, has the interesting experience of directing his own daughter, as the rather domineering sister of Ben. Herman and Verman, the twin buddies of the heroes are portrayed by two well known negro boy actors, Dandridge and Robinson. Interesting grown-ups, needful to the story, as dads, moms, teachers, and what not—are played by Matt Moore, Dorothy Peterson, Zasu Pitts and others.

GOVERNOR TO TALK OVER "AIR SCHOOL"

Madison —(P)— Gov. Philip LaFollette will inaugurate a school of the air next Monday when he speaks over the radio here to several thousand Madison school children and other school children whose schools are equipped with radio receivers.

Seventeen Madison schools have been equipped with radio apparatus which permits reception of general broadcasts in addition to instructions from the principal's sending unit.

Frank O. Holt, registrar of the University of Wisconsin, will speak during the afternoon, taking for his subject, "Three Questions of Importance to the Student." W. G. Douma, secretary of the board of normal school regents, will speak on an historical subject Tuesday afternoon.

Patients are flipped over like cakes on a griddle by a hospital bed just invented by a Canadian.

Play Title Roles in Famous Story

Meet Leon Janney and Junior Coghlan as they appear in the title roles of Booth Tarkington's "Penrod and Sam," the first National picture coming to the Appleton Theatre.

"Penrod and Sam" comes to Warner's Appleton Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 8, 9, 10.

BEAUTIFUL MARLENE STAR OF "DISHONORED"

Talk is about to start again.... Marlene Dietrich will be back at the Elite theatre next Thursday and Friday in a picture that is bound to startle film audiences even more than her original opus, "Morocco." The picture is "Dishonored," in which this surprising woman is cast as an Austrian spy in wartime, playing a reckless and dangerous game, spurred by a patriotic purpose, with love as the ever eminent threat to safety.

"Dishonored" is a brilliant story. It is said the facts were taken from the life adventure of one of the war's most glamorous woman spys. Co-starred with the luscious Dietrich is Victor McLaglen star of such hits as "What Price Glory?" "The Cock-Eyed World," "A Devil With Women." Here he plays the kind of rolistering role, in uniform, which won him fame on the screen, a care-free, persuasive lover. McLaglen and Dietrich are splendid together, a pair of lovers with the flavor of romance.

Chapter 27
CONSPIRATORS

"NONSENSE!" Sam took his arm and shook it commandingly. "Stop talking such utter nonsense immediately, Nelson! Why on earth should you think she was dead? I never heard anything more ridiculous in my life. Let me see the letter will you please?"

The letter was a badly phrased, almost incoherent little document. It was also definitely pathetic. As Nelson said, Martha had come to the conclusion that Nelson was too good for her, that she could never live up to him; that he would always be ashamed of her. For that reason she was going away. She still loved him, but that could make no difference. She was never coming back and he must not try to find her. She did not know where she was going, but she trusted that her dear Sam might very well be a lonely grave. She closed with renewed assurances of her love.

Sam looked up at Nelson and saw that once more he was on the verge of tears. He swallowed with difficulty and said: "She was going to have a baby Sam."

"That's splendid!" Sam was determinedly cheerful. "That's the best news I've heard in a long time. But why do you use the past tense? Martha isn't dead you know?"

"Isn't she?" Nelson sat down suddenly and put his head in his hands. "Honey, she's dead!"

"How do I know?" Sam laughed. "I just know, that's all. Martha isn't the type. She couldn't commit suicide if she wanted to—which she doesn't—so let's not bother our heads about that any more. Suppose you tell me what you're doing with your pen and this letter."

It appeared that Nelson had not done very much. He had gone to see Martha's father and mother. They, of course, knew nothing of her whereabouts, and had created something of a scene when they learned that she had disappeared. He had telephoned them and a few of Martha's other intimate friends. He had stopped in at the accident wards or two or three hospitals—"Just in case."

"What do you propose to do now?" Sam asked.

"I don't know. I might telephone the newspapers. I suppose, or notify the police."

"Also," said Sam grimly, "you might not! Do you want this all over the front page?"

"I don't know," Nelson looked up at her. "I only know I want to find my wife."

"Of course," Sam put on her coat. "You're here, too, without bothering with the police."

"Where are you going?" Nelson inquired listlessly. "You aren't going to leave me flat, are you?"

"Get your hat," she ordered briskly, "and come along."

Nelson obediently got to his feet and took up his hat. "Where are we going?" he inquired dully. "What are we going to do?"

"We're going out to Peak Abbott's home and have a talk with him. Maybe he can help."

"Peak Abbott?" Nelson scowled. "What's the use of dragging him into this? What can he do?"

Sam had no very clear idea of what she expected Peak to be able to do. She only knew that she wanted to talk to him about this thing; to ask his advice. Peak would be sensible and calm, and at the very least he might be able to strengthen her in her resolve.

"Never mind about that," she said sharply, turning toward the door. "Just you leave things to me for a little while, will you please."

In the end she was glad that she had insisted. Peak, to be sure, could offer no definite plan of action at the moment, but somehow gave the impression that he would be able to deal with the matter successfully. He was cheerful and full of confidence that everything would be all right before another day had passed. As soon, as she had told him the story, Sam felt that her weight had been taken from her shoulders. She could see that Nelson felt better, too. He stood more erect. He answered questions. He suggested some things that might be done in the morning. He agreed, almost with relief, to the suggestion that she spend the night with her Peak.

In the end she was glad that she wasn't getting home. She flatly vetoed, as unnecessary and imprac-

BELIEVE BOND RECOVERY WILL AID STOCK MART

Stocks Unsettled by Fresh Sinking Spell in Rail-road Shares

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York—(AP)—A relapse in stocks was matched by further improvement in bonds today, and as Wall Street feels that a better bond market is vital to recovery elsewhere the week ended with sentiment somewhat improved.

Stocks were unsettled by a fresh sinking spell in the rail shares, which dropped 2 to 5 points to new lows, dragging down the general list. The turnover was not particularly large, amounting to around a million shares, but leading stocks lost ground easily.

The renewed pressure against the rails was coincident with the filing of the four-party consolidation plan with the Interstate Commerce Commission. The plan, which was developed by the American Can, American Tobacco, B. F. Goodrich, Case, Eastman, Dupont, Drug, Goodyear, Loews, Consolidated Gas, and North American.

In the industrials, U. S. Steel lost 3 1/2 points, dropping to new low ground since 1915. Miscellaneous issues of 2 to 4 points indicated American Telephone, American Can, American Tobacco, B. F. Goodrich, Case, Eastman, Dupont, Drug, Goodyear, Loews, Consolidated Gas, and North American.

There was little in the way of business on financial news to account for the swift reaction in stocks after they had laboriously managed to close higher yesterday, and most observers regarded it as reflecting a further wave of hangover liquidation.

The weekend reports of the scheduled steel mills for next week indicated a slight decline in operations. Since this area serves the automobile industry to an important degree it appears that motor makers are taking their time about preparing new models.

PRICES IRREGULAR ON N. Y. BOND MART

New York—(AP)—The bond market advanced irregularly today in quiet trading.

Strength was more marked among the public utility and railroad issues than in the industrial and foreign loans. Moderate reaction appeared in such issues as Colombian 6s October 1931, German 7s of 1934, German 4 1/2s October 1931, and Italian 7s of 1931. However, such foreign bonds as Argentine 6s of May 1931, Belgian 7s, German 5 1/2s and Norwegian 6s of 1934 made good gains.

New York, Chicago and St. Louis 4 1/2s of 1937, New York Central 5s of 2013, Great Northern 5s of 1934, and Western 5s of 1934, all gained about one point each. Smaller gains were fairly common among other rails. Canadian Pacific Debenture 4s and Chicago and Northwestern 4 1/2s of 1934 receded on active sales.

SAYS PEOPLE MUST BE MADE TO BUY BY ADVERTISING

Expert Points Out Hoarded Dollars Must Be Persuaded into Circulation

Babson Park, Mass.—Advertising is now offered an opportunity to render this country and the world at large a great economic service. The present trouble with business is under-consumption, not over-production. Human nature always goes to extremes. It was popular and fashionable to spend money lavishly in 1928 and 1929, and people overdid it. Now it has become fashionable to scrimp and hoard, and again people are over-doing it. Advertising must sway the public fashion back to a sane middle course. It is up to the advertisers to make the desire to buy goods more appealing than the security of safe deposit boxes. The extreme lack of purchasing among the well-to-do classes is now the result of fear and fashion rather than it is of inability to buy. There is still plenty of money in this country. The trouble is that it is being hoarded.

This hoarding goes on in two ways: First, by the actual withdrawal of currency and placing it in safe deposit boxes, hiding it in homes, and otherwise storing it away; and second, by piling up savings deposits to a point where many banks are refusing to take more money. Moreover, the banks are virtually hoarding it, because in an effort to keep as liquid as possible they are not making their accustomed volume of loans and have shut down on their purchases of securities. I am not pleading for extravagance. I do, however, believe that those who can afford to buy should do so. If even one-half of the billion dollars now hoarded away were brought back into circulation, business would start up immediately. The fear of losing what is hoarded about it won't loosen up these pocketbooks. The best way to break the "buyers' strike" is by liberal and intelligent advertising, showing merchandise values the greatest they have been in this generation, and greatest in relation to wage levels they have been in the history of the country.

Advertisers must recognize that there are two distinct groups of consumers. There is the ten per cent, or well-to-do, who still have plenty of money but are hoarding it, having lost the urge to buy; and there is the ninety per cent with plenty of urge to buy and little money. Advertising must be fitted to these two groups. The ten per cent are hoarding enough money to make good business if it could be got out into circulation. Intelligent advertising must create in this group a desire for goods. The manufacturer and merchant can, by the tone of advertising and by specific cases, show the folly of leaving money idle when merchandise values are so great. Moreover, the tone of such advertising must be light and cheerful, to offset the gloom and solemnity which has become so fashionable in the depression. Show society that the most effective welfare work today is to buy goods. Make it popular and fashionable to do so. The ninety per cent with plenty of needs and small buying power, the advertiser should honestly put himself in the place of these families. He can teach them to buy the sort of things they really need and the sort that will give them the most economical service. Usually not more than two good quality necessities are required. Limited purchasing power has no business buying poor merchandise. Manufacturers and merchants must not make the mistake of cheapening their quality. By so doing they will breed ill-will. Rather they must strive to keep up the quality and pass along the savings in production costs and low material prices to the mass of the people who most urgently need goods of long service in return for their hard-won dollars. For both families of consumers, well-to-do and those of limited incomes, advertisers should talk values. Instead of comparative price reduction miss the point. Effects On Business Business today is like an engine that is caught on dead center. It takes some unusual push to start it going. Advertising can supply that push providing business men will make the proper use of it. Once recovery starts, hoarded capital will be rushed out of safe deposit boxes just as fast as it was frightened into them by the depression. The most foolish thing a concern can do today is to cut down its advertising appropriations and freeze the money in a bank. During the boom years advertising was much over-done and it undoubtedly was a factor in prolonging the period of extravagance and inflation beyond reasonable bounds. Today, however, when there is an opportunity to make advertising serve a great economic and national need, it should be increased. The only thing that has been seriously advertised in the past two years is the depression itself. As commodities, one after another, have tumbled to new low levels their fall has received intense publicity, but the general tenor of this has been, "Isn't it too bad." Instead advertisers should emphasize the excellent opportunities which these low prices present.

A survey three months ago showed that because of the lower retail prices the same good quality of food could be bought for twenty and one-half per cent less than in 1929; furniture for twenty-five per cent less; men's clothing and furnishings for fifteen per cent less; hosiery for twenty-three per cent less. In the past three months the decline has gone much further, so that even better values are now

Junk Man Is Playing Big Role In Modern History

BY ALLARD SMITH
Executive Vice President, The Union Trust Company, Cleveland, Ohio
The dealer in old metals, more familiarly known as the junk man, has become a factor of considerable importance to the country's industry. He is now part of one of the country's greatest business. Recently announced results of the first survey ever made of the scrap iron and steel business show that sales of scrap iron and steel in cities of more than 100,000 in a recent normal year reached the impressive total of $250,000,000.

This scrap iron and steel goes to the steel mills for combination with iron ore in the making of new steel, and the figures of the steel industry show a constantly increasing use of scrap and a constantly diminishing ratio of new iron ore to the total iron and steel production. From 1920 to 1929 the consumption of scrap increased 61 per cent, while iron ore consumption gained only 10 per cent. Steel output gained 27 per cent. In 1912 approximately 75 per cent of total iron and steel production was new iron from ore, the percentage being scrap. In 1929 the new iron from ore was in the neighborhood of 57 with 43 per cent scrap. The increasing use of scrap in steel making has given new dignity to the cast off autos of ancient vintage and the salvaging of scrapped motor cars has become an important activity in industry. All this means conservation of our natural resources as well as reduced costs for steel, that great underlying commodity on which so much of our material prosperity is based. What is being done in iron and steel is also being done in rubber, tin, lead, copper and other materials.

We are not a wasteful people, although old world critics have many times characterized us as such. The American trait of wanting at all times the newest and best we are able to obtain is not waste. On the contrary it is an expression of our entire appreciation of a standard of living higher in this country than in any other.

WAGNER, HEAD OF MARMON COMPANY, OLD BUSINESS MAN

Firm Also Makes Specialty of Repairing and Towing Service

After 28 successful years in a business, a man generally merits the respect of the community whom he serves. Such is the case with Mike Wagner, head of the M. Wagner Marmon company, 1330 E. Wisconsin. The company, which has been in existence since 1901, is now on its way to the seventh millionth car. The "milestone" car came off the line of the local assembly plant shortly before noon of Aug. 25, and brings the number of six cylinder cars built by this manufacturer, since the introduction of the larger type in 1929, to nearly three millions. Five million cars and trucks have been built in less than five full years.

No ceremonies attended the building of the car—a sport roadster—other than the momentary pause of workmen who watched it gradually take a finished form as it passed down the assembly line C. B. Wetherald, newly-appointed general manufacturing manager, had the car brought to Detroit for exhibition to other company officials. Among those on hand to inspect it were W. S. Knudsen, President and General Manager; H. J. Klingler, Vice-President and General Sales Manager; J. M. Crawford, Chief Engineer, and others.

No exhibition tours or other special arrangements have been made for the car which is now on its way, along with several thousand others built the same day, for delivery to an unsuspicious owner somewhere in the region served by the Flint plant. The car followed the seven millionth Chevrolet in a year and three months, and is the 2,845,938th six-cylinder unit turned out by Chevrolet since the change over from a four to 1929.

The seven millionth car was built May 23, 1930 in the period between the two and the eight million car, the products of the company forged to first place in passenger car registrations and took the lead among all makes in production during recent months. Although organized in 1911 the company spent twelve years building the first million cars, that event having occurred in 1923. Thereafter the second and third million product followed at two year intervals and the fourth millionth came off the line on Jan. 11, 1928. Again in 1928, on Sept. 8, another million was rounded out and on June 26th, 1929, number 6,000,000 of the line at Flint, Chevrolet Motor Co.

MAN ARRESTED AFTER HE SHOOTS AT WOMAN
Escanaba, Mich. (P)—Adolph Benson, 43, of Whitnaw, Mich., was in the custody of the Menominee co. sheriff today, charged with assault on Mrs. Gladys Service, 23, store clerk, with a deadly weapon. Benson walked into the store here and asked prices on roofing materials. While the clerk sought the information in a catalog, Benson took a shotgun from a case and inserted a shell. He leveled the gun at Mrs. Service as she turned. She screamed and ducked, the charge striking the wall above her.

The man was seized as he started to walk calmly out of the store. Authorities said Benson was twice committed to the state hospital for the insane at Newberry and that no record of a release on the second commitment was found.

FULCAN PAINT CO. OPERATES THREE STORES IN VALLEY

Articles of Incorporation Are Filed With State by New Firm

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the Secretary of state at Madison for the Fulcan Paint company. A. W. Claussen and E. D. Claussen, Menasha, and Fred E. Robbins of Appleton are the incorporators.

The corporation will acquire and carry on the business conducted for several years at 194 Main-st., Menasha, by A. W. Claussen, under the title of Fulcan Paint company.

In addition, it will take over and operate the store recently opened at 208 W. Wisconsin-ave., Neenah, by Mr. Claussen. The third store to be taken into the group is the Appleton Paint company, 115 N. Superior-st., in the August Brandt building, Appleton. This store has been operated by Fred E. Robbins, one of the incorporators in the Fulcan organization.

Are Home-Owned Stores
The stated purpose of the new corporation is to carry on the business of the three stores, using as a slogan: "Three Home Owned Stores for Home Town Folks."

Mr. Claussen is well known throughout Outagamie and Winnebago counties. Mr. Robbins, who recently established his residence in Appleton, has been connected with the paint and wallpaper industry for the past ten years. For several years he was connected with the Alfred Peat company of Chicago, known as the oldest wallpaper sample book house in America. Distribute Armstrong Paints

The Fulcan Paint company, through its three stores, is distributor of the paints, varnishes and enamels manufactured by the Armstrong Paint and Varnish works of Chicago—makers of fine paints for 78 years.

The Armstrong factory, 14th-st and Kilbourn-ave., Chicago, is recognized in the paint and varnish industry as possessing the last word in modern construction and efficient equipment. The Armstrong paint department has a capacity of 8,000 gallons daily. The varnish department can produce 6,000 gallons daily and has a storage tank capacity of 255,000 gallons. It is this storing which permits proper aging of the varnish. Armstrong paints are nationally known for uniform quality. Sells Mayflower Wallpaper

In addition, the Fulcan Paint company has also completed arrangements to distribute through its three stores the well known Mayflower Wallpaper, now featured in McCall's, Better Homes and Gardens and Household Magazine. Mayflower wallpapers are the product of America's largest independent wallpaper manufacturer. Already, many of the 1932 designs are available.

In speaking of present market tendencies in the paint and wallpaper industry, Mr. Robbins says that material costs in these lines are lower now than for many years and are lower than they are likely to be for some time to come.

This trend has been reflected this fall in the lowered prices on finished goods. This is the consuming purchaser getting a bigger value for his dollar and a better product at the price than he has been able to buy for a long time. It is, therefore, very much to the buyer's advantage to purchase paints and varnishes now and arrange to do all the painting possible this fall.
